Good Suggestions for the Indian.

A REPORT ON OUR ARMY.

The Chicago Meat Packers Strike Ordered Off But the Laborers Object.

[Special to the Herald by the Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, November 13.—A Washington special to the Sun says: One of the most striking passages in the annual report of Commissioner J. D. C. Atkins, which has just been printed, shows the working of an Indian landed aristocracy under the present tribunal system of holding reservations. It appears that the chief cultivation of tribal lands is done by a few rich and enterprising red men who pocket all the proceeds and pay no rent to the tribe as a whole. Of course their plea is that if any other member of the tribe choose to till tribal lands they are at liberty to do so, but it appears that in the Indian Territory, where some very large crops are raised on lands held in common by partly civilized tribes, the wealthier and more influential Indians have monopolized the best lands, and much more than would be their share under an equal division in severalty. Commissioner Atkins accordingly points out that the present system of land tenure among the Red men is working very badly, and that the Government ought to intervene and divide the land held in the Indian Territory into lots of one hundred and sixty acres for each head of a family, and half as much for each child. The general impression derived from Commissioner Atkins' report is that the present system of Indian land holding is very imperfect and unwise, and that Congress should promptly substitute one which would be better both for the Red men and the whites.

PLEA FOR THE INDIANS.

The Interior Department to-day received a copy of the fourth annual message of Hon. D. W. Bushyhead, principal chief of the Cherokee nation in the Indian Territory, to the national council sitting at Tahlequah November 2nd, 1886. He says, among other things: "I deem it my duty to call your attention to the subject of the proposed confederation of the nations and tribes of the Territory, with the hope that you will take some action of a definite character looking to the formation of an international government, clothed with such functions and powers as it may deem proper to confer upon it. The importance, not to say the necessity of such action, is suggested by the fact that there are bills before Congress providing for the creation of a Territory of the United States out of the so-called 'no man's land,' with such portions of the Indian Territory as may be included by consent of the tribes residing thereon. Thus an insidious scheme for invading and dismembering the Territory is sought to be carried out, which, in my opinion, could be defeated in advance by union of tribes in confederation, through which they would act together on all questions involving the interests of all. Such an organization would not only consume the interests of the whole territory, but it would command the respect of the people and the Government of the United States. The danger and the power of the white man lies chiefly in his combination of forces. It behooves us to profit by this example. The Indian Territory, occupied by thirty tribes each, as in the outset, distinct from the others, invites an invasion of their rights from the selfish and unscrupulous. The Indian Territory, with her thirty tribes bound together by a constitutional compact into one federal body politic would in my opinion be able by virtue of the moral force such a union would exert and by the combined wisdom and united action of all to resist all schemes for the dismemberment of Our Country and the invasion of our political and other rights.

OUR ARMY.

Many Officers and a Scarcity of Men.

WASHINGTON, November 13.—Lieutenant-General Sheridan has submitted to the Secretary of War his annual report showing the operations of military forces during the past year. From the report it appears that at the date of the last returns the army of the United States consisted 2103 officers and 23,945 men. Under the head of the Division of the Pacific, after alluding to the preservation of peace by the prompt arrival of troops at points where anti-Chinese riots were threatened, the Lieutenant-General turns his attention to the campaign against Geronimo. He states that it was his idea to move to Florida the Indians held as prisoners by General Crook last November, but that he deferred such action upon the recommendation of General Crook and Captain Crawford. Touching on the death of Captain Crawford at a time when negotiations had been opened with the hostile Indians at their solicitation, with a view to their surrender, General Sheridan says: "The loss of Capt. Crawford was much to be regretted, as he would, in my opinion, have terminated the cruel and bloody atrocities which continued thereafter for many months." The report then relates in detail the circumstances attending the qualified surrender of Geronimo to Gen. Crook on terms which were not approved by the President, and the subsequent escape of the Chief with twenty warriors and thirteen women. Touching the relief of Gen. Crook and his replacement by Gen. Miles, Gen. Sheridan says that it grew out of the fact that Gen. Crook seemed to be wedded to the policy of operating almost exclusively with Indian scouts and as his experience was of great weight his policy could not well be changed without his removal to another field. To relieve the Department of embarrassment Gen. Crook requested to be released and Gen. Miles had been assigned to the command upon the recommendation of Gen. Sheridan.

The Bribers.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Counsel for James A. Richmond and Jacob Sharp, under indictment on a charge of having bribed Aldermen while officials of the Broadway road, gave notice to-day of a motion that they be informed of the evidence upon which the indictments were found. They make affidavit that they did not bribe nor were they privy to any bribery of members of the Council; that they understand the indictments were found on false evidence, and they want to know its character in order that they may prepare their defense.

A Fraud.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Charles Curtis, alias Tichborne, was brought up again to-day before United States Commissioner Benedict in Brooklyn for examination on a charge a fraud upon pension claims. United States District Attorney Wilbur stated that his evidence was completed. The prisoner was then discharged. He was at once rearrested and charged with having obtained a pension under false pretences, claiming that he had lost his fingers in the war, when he lost them in raising a house at San Diego, Cal.

Fat Stock.

CHICAGO, November 13.—The fat stock exhibition now in progress here is by far the most successful yet held. The exhibits are fine and the attendance is unusually large. There was quite a flutter among stockmen when it became known that the grand sweepstakes had been taken by a thoroughbred two year-old Hereford. No animal so young as that has heretofore taken the sweepstakes, and only once before has it been taken by a thoroughbred. The Hereford men now feel that their claims for that breed are vindicated.

New York Election Figures.

NEW YORK, November 13.—The Board of County Canvassers made their reports this afternoon. The result of the election figures do not alter the result as furnished by the Associated Press on election night. The official figures for Mayor are: Hewitt 90,552; George 68,110: Roosevelt 60,435 and Wardwell 582.

A Bad Case.

WINFIELD, Kan., November 13.—This morning at the Bretlun House Lillian Quinn shot Frank E. Lockwood and then herself, both through the head. She is dead and it is believed that he cannot live. It is understood to be a case of seduction. The Coroner's jury will investigate.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

A Small Riot the Outcome of the Affair.

CHICAGO, November 13.—This afternoon 2000 strikers gathered about the dwelling of an employee of Armour, who was attacked yesterday while attempting to move his household goods to another neighborhood. This employee is a Knight of Labor, but refused to go out with the others. He again had his goods upon wagons this afternoon when he was set upon by the mob. The crowd was dispersed by a company of malitia, who left a squad of Pinkerton men to protect the goods. The crowd quickly organized and nearly overpowered the Pinkerton guard, when another company arrived on double quick and charged through the mob and arrested six men and routed the others. There were no casualties.

THE STRIKE ORDERED OFF.

At a meeting of the strikers to-night a dispatch was read by Mr. Barry from Powderly, ordering the strike off and the men to return to work. The sentiment of the meeting was equally divided, and further action in the matter was postponed until Monday.

A POLITICAL MOVE.

After the meeting Barry said he thought if Mr. Powderly and the General Executive Board were here their judgment would be different. Barry charged that the struggle on the part of the packers was merely a political move to control the town election next spring and not a question of eight or ten hours. The packers were afraid the labor men would elect an Assessor who would increase the property valuation. The army of men imported were principally brought here as a colony of voters to control the spring election.

It appears that Barry has had the order in his possession since Wednesday. He claims to have delayed its promulgation solely for the purpose of satisfying himself of its authenticity. The scene in the meeting when the order was read was in many respects an extraordinary one. Barry had not finished the announcement before the assemblage was in an uproar. Men rose to their feet and shouted that they would not go back; that they would starve before they would surrender, and that they would have eight hours or nothing. After much heated talk the question of obeying or not obeying was left open by postponement until Monday.

Mayor Grace in Trouble.

NEW YORK, November 13.—The World this morning says: "Suit has been brought against Mayor Wm. R. Grace by Julian T Davies, the receiver of Grant & Ward, to recover $150,000, which the receiver says the books show Mayor Grace obtained through fictitious contracts he had with Ferdinand Ward. The complaint in the suit, which is brought against Mayor Grace individually, has been served, and Mayor Grace has ascertained that the summons sued for includes money which passed to Mayor Grace through Edward H. Tobey's hands. Mayor Grace has repeatedly denied that he had any interest in Tobey's transactions with Ward, and it has been said that he so testified before the United States Grand Jury which indicted Ward, Warner and Tobey, but there are checks in the hands of Receiver Davies drawn up by Ward in favor of Tobey which show by Mayor Grace's endorsement that the money went to him.

A Cathedral Burned.

PITTSBURGH, November 13.—St. Peter's Church which burned last night was one of the finest in the country. The edifice was of stone and cost, when ready for its interior furnishings, $125,000. The cost of the furnishing and furnishings, added to the cost of the building, was almost $50,000. The frescoing was of the finest, as was indeed every particle of furniture.

On the walls were fourteen oil paintings descriptive of the life of the Savior, which were imported for the church. The organ, which was one of the best in the two cities, cost $3500, and the altar, with its furnishings, about $5000. The stained glass windows were all memorials. In the altar were a number of valuable relics from Rome and the archives of the church, which were saved when the fire burned itself out.

Nothing but the walls were left standing and over $130 000 had gone up in smoke.

Canada's Finances.

NEW YORK, November 13.—A special from Ottawa Ontario, says: the annual statement of the Minister of Finance of the revenue and expenditures of the Dominion for the fiscal year ending June 30th last, which will be published to-day, will show a deficit of $5,800,000. The revenue during the year was only $33,200,000, while the government expended $39,000,000. The treasury is nearly empty and the Minister of Finance will shortly be forced to float a new loan to enable the government to meet current expenditures. Never were the finances of Canada in a more deplorable condition.

The Real Cummings.

LAWRENCE, Ks., November 13.—The police authorities of this city are of the opinion that "Jim Cummings," the reputed express robber, is a man named Purington, who was confined in the county jail here last winter for obtaining money fraudulently and escaped in April last. Cummings' handwriting, as published in the St. Louis papers, corresponds with that of Purington and Frotheningham's description of the robber tallies with his appearance.

Heavy Snow Storms.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., November 13.—There was a heavy snowfall here last night and it is still falling. It is now over one and one-half feet deep. Trains are impeded.

GENEVA, N. Y., November 13.—The heaviest snow storm ever experienced here at this time of the season is now prevailing. The snow is twenty inches deep on a level and in drifts from three to six feet. Trains are two hours late.

A Fire.

STAPLETON, N. Y., November 13.—A fire which started at 4 o'clock this morning in the office of the Staten Island Dyeing Establishment, at West New Brighton, destroyed the press house, dyeing house, frame room and silk house, together with their contents and the machinery. The loss is about $100,000. The fire was got under control at 9 o'clock. It is said to have been caused by a kerosene oil lamp.

Lost in a Storm.

OSWEGO, N. Y., November 13.—The tug Protector left here for Charlotte last night before the storm with the barges Bolivia and E. C. Buell in tow. She got lost in the snow storm and her barges broke away. The tug badly iced up finally got into Charlotte, but nothing has been heard from the barges. There were six men on each barge. They are probably lost. Several wrecks are reported along the south shore.

Death of an Eminent Professor.

PRINCETON, N. J., November 13.—Rev. Archibald Alex. Hodge, D.D.L.L.D., professor of didactic and potenic theology at Princeton College, died yesterday. He was the oldest son of the eminent theologian and professor, Dr. Chas. H Hodge, who so long filled the chair of theology in the Princeton seminary. He was born in Princeton July 18, 1823.

Bicycle Contest.

MINNEAPOLIS, November 13.—Morgan won the six days' bicycle contest, making 740 miles and one lap in the alloted forty-eight hours, riding eight hours per day, beating the record for this style of racing by 150 miles. Schock was second, and ten miles behind Dingley, and Highman did not finish. The race was for the gate receipts

Cutting Won't Invade.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., November 13.—The Democrat believes that there is not a word of truth in the recruiting of an expedition to invade Mexico, the foreman of that paper having a letter from Cutting in which he applies for a position as a compositor, giving as a reason that he wanted to get away from El Paso.

Killed by an Explosion.

PITTSBURGH, November 13.—A Sheffield, Pa., special says: The boiler in Mapes' mill near here exploded with terrific force last evening, instantly killing Milton Mapes, owner of the mill. His twelve-year-old son, and three employes—Robert Monroe, Link Comstock and Harry Knowles—were seriously if not fatally injured. The cause of the explosion is not known.

KNOCKED OUT.

Sullivan Paralyzes Paddy Ryan.

A SHORT BUT SHARP FIGHT.

San Francisco Fashionable People Show Their Appreciation of the Manly Art.

[Special to the Herald by the Associated Press.]

SAN FRANCISCO, November 13.—An appeal was made yesterday by the Society for the Suppression of Vice, to Mayor Bartlett, to have him withdraw the license granted for the Sullivan-Ryan glove contest to night, but the Mayor declined to take further action in the matter. Owing to a fashionable entertainment to be given in the Grand Opera House, for the benefit of the Charleston earthquake sufferers, the managers of the contest have arranged that Sullivan and Ryan shall not appear until 11 o'clock, so as to give those who attend the Charleston benefit entertainment an opportunity of reaching the Pavilion in time to witness the Sullivan-Ryan performance. The men will fight with four-ounce gloves and under the revised Queensbury rules, the agreement being that the winner shall take seventy-five per cent and the loser twenty-five per cent of the gate money. Pat Sheedy, Sullivan's manager, says to-night that the match will not last fifteen minutes; that Sullivan intends to knock Ryan out so suddenly that he won't even give the police a chance to interfere. The great bulk of the male population is on the tip toe of excitement at the prospect of a clean "knock out," and although the Charleston benefit fund may not suffer it would perhaps have been as well for it had the double event not occurred on the same night.

As early as 7 o'clock the doors of the pavilion were besieged by an eager crowd impatiently awaiting admission. When at last the doors were thrown open the rush to obtain good seats was so great that many people were badly crushed, if not seriously injured. When all were inside, the pavilion contained nine thousand people. Sheedy was surprised. He says he never saw such a house before, except once in Madison Square Garden, New York. He estimates that the receipts will reach $12,000. There were the usual preliminary sets-to between local celebrities, after which La Blanche, of Boston, and Jimmy Carroll, of New York, who came out with sullivan, put in an appearance. La Blanche had a lame right hand and did not use it. The first round was a pretty exhibition of sparring. The second was a little more serious, La Blanche caught Carroll under the jaw with his left and sent him reeling to the ropes. The third and last round was a "go" all the way through. La Blanche let Carroll get in on him with his right and to the amusement of the audience went heels over head in a back handed somersault. Just as the round was over, one of the side doors of the pavilion was burst in, and about seventy outsiders rushed in.

At ten o'clock the proceedings were enlivened by a tremendous crash in the left gallery. A lot of men had climbed upon a number of shoe-cases, and for diversion, for their excitement over the rounds between June Denis and Jim Hall, two negro boxers. They toppled the cases over, smashing them to pieces and badly cutting a boy on the face and hands. After the local and other pugilists had finished there was a wait of nearly three-quarters of an hour.

The patience of the audience became exhausted. Whistles and groans had been continuous until at last the conclusion was reached that something had happened to one of the principals. Billy Jordan did his best to keep the people quiet by telling them he had just received word that the men would be here in a few minutes. This, after awhile, became an old story and cries of "chestnuts" were hurled at him from all corners of the building. At ten minutes past 11 o'clock the two had not yet made their appearance.

THE FIGHT.

Exactly at fourteen minutes past 11 o'clock the two stars, Sullivan and Ryan made their appearance. Ryan was the first to trip lightly up the stairs of the platform. As he slipped off his coat he was loudly cheered. Sullivan quickly followed and was greeted with deafening applause. Capt. Hiram Cook, of this city, was chosen referee, Daniel Murphy and Jack Goldsmith, Sullivan and Charles Smith time-keeper for Ryan. Five minutes went by before the men took their corners and another four elapsed before time was called.

First round—After shaking hands the two men sparred for five seconds for an opening, when Ryan suddenly let out with his right, catching Sullivan on the right cheek. Yells of "Good for Paddy!" were heard all over the house. From this moment both men fought savagely, Ryan leading throughout. Ryan followed up with another right-hander on the cheek, and attempted to follow up with a stomach blow, but fell short. For the first minute the fighting was so severe that Ryan began to show signs of failing wind. Sullivan took advantage of this and made a rush at Ryan, when both clinched, but were quickly separated.

Second round—Ryan again forced the fighting but with less apparent effect, though he reached Sullivan's face and body several times. He had lost some of his power through being winded. Sullivan on noticing this started to force the fight and leading out reached Ryan who countered ineffectually. Sullivan again reached for him and landed a body blow which downed Ryan amid loud cheers. This was repeated twice. Ryan escaped the tactics of clinching to avoid punishment, and at the end of the round it was apparent that Ryan's chance for a victory was gone.

THIRD ROUND.

This round was a regular slugging match. Sullivan being in better wind forced the fighting from the start, but both men showed signs of heavy punishment. After the third pass Sullivan sent in a terrific right hander on Ryan's jaw, which sent him spinning to the ropes, a clear knock down. The blow so rattled Ryan that it was with some difficulty that he staggered to his feet. He shook himself together and in a dazed way led off with his left for Sullivan's face. The latter stopped it prettily and then repeated his right hander on Ryan's jaw. The blow was so violent and well-directed that Ryan went down as if shot out of a cannon. It was a knockout of the cleanest kind. Ryan laid on the floor utterly unable to move. The police rushed in, but it was too late, there was nothing for them to do. The fight was ended. Sullivan waved the time-keepers back, so as to see if Ryan had anything more to say. When time was called Ryan was still on the floor. Sullivan then stooped down, raised him up and carried him to his corner. The crowd quickly dispersed, amid shouts for Sullivan.

Long Beach Items.

The Long Beach Hotel was opened on Friday evening by a surprise party to commemorate the nuptials of Mr. Fred. Cowley and the estimable Miss Gard. The banquet was sumptuous. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jotham Bixby, Gen. Edwin Ward and Mrs. and Miss Ward, Mr. H. Williams and lady, Dr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Miss Woodhead, Mr. and the Misses Elwood, Mr. Leftra and lady, and about fifty other guests had a most delightful entertainment.

The Long Beach Hotel is now reopened for the season in fine style. The lessees, Messrs. Cowley & Baker, have arranged with Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb to entertain their excursionists at the elegant Long Beach Hotel for the season. This is the crowning glory of the charms of this excursion series.

News From Congo.

A short time since the HERALD published an interesting letter from Mr. Herbert Ward, son of Gen. Edwin Ward, of Pasadena, detailing his experiences in Congo, Africa, where he was exploring the country.

Gen. Ward has just received a letter from Africa written by a United States Naval officer, stating that Mr. Ward had been wounded by a native in that country, but whether the wound is dangerous or not is not stated. It is earnestly hoped that this is of this great traveler and explorer may be spared from the dangers of travel and that he will soon visit his family at Pasadena and enjoy a season of rest.

Latest Returns of the Election.

A DIVISION OF OFFICES.

Opening Day of the Blood Horse Races—Burial of Mamie Kelly.

[Special to the Herald by the Associated Press.]

SAN FRANCISCO, November 13.—Official returns from five counties are still lacking on the vote for Attorney-General. Estimating the vote in those counties the same as was cast for Governor, the plurality for Hart (Rep.) over Johnson (Dem.) will be 256. The official returns of the vote of seven counties on Superintendent of Public Public Instruction are lacking. Estimating the vote in these counties as being the same as was cast for Governor, the plurality of Hoitt (Rep.) over Moulder (Dem.) will be about 720. This will divide the State ticket as follows:

To the Democrats: Governor, Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, Clerk of the Supreme Court and one Supreme Judge.

To the Republicans: Lieutenant Governor, Surveyor General, Attorney General, Superintendent of Public Instruction and two Supreme Judges.

BLOOD HORSE RACES.

A Good Day and Some Exciting Events.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 13.—The opening day of the Fall Meeting of the Blood Horse Association was commenced to-day, under the most favorable auspices. The attendance was very large; track and weather superb, betting spirited and the contests exciting.

First race—Purse for all ages, won by Argo, a rank outsider, Estrella, (the favorite) second, Laura Gardner third; time 1:49¾.

Second race—Ladies' stakes, two-year-old fillies, three-quarters mile, had only four starters, Lead Year and Matilda being scratched. Napa was first away to a good start and was never headed, winning after a drive. Matilda by a head from Grissette, the favorite, Gardner, third.

Third race—Bay City stakes, for three-year-olds, easily won by Mollie McCarthy's Last, Monte Christo second, Moonlight third; time 2:37½. Volante was entered but withdrawn just before the start.

Fourth race—Purse for two-year-old colts, excited the most attention. C. H. Todd, the favorite, won by a length from Jim Duffy, who beat Laredo by a head; time 1:42¾.

Fifth Race—Extra, seven-eighths mile, handicap for all ages. Dynamite was a strong favorite but was replaced by Thad, a thirty to one chance, winning after an exciting finish by half a length, Bertie R second, Fred Collier third; time 1:30¼.

THE BOY MURDERER.

His Victim Buried—His Examination Set for the 16th.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 13.—The funeral of Mamie Kelly, who was killed by Aleck Goldenson, took place this morning from St. Joseph's Church. After a short and impressive funeral ceremony the procession formed and began its march to the cemetery. The vehicles in line extended over a distance of nearly two-thirds of a mile. Thousands were present at the interment, and hundreds of bouquets were cast into the grave.

Goldenson was arranged before Justice Wilson this morning on the charge of murder. Colonel Flournoy appeared for him. He stated that he consented to appear for the defendant during the arraignment only, and asked for a continuance of the case on the ground that he had made no preparations. The case was then set for Thursday, November 16. Goldenson was taken to and from the courthouse in as secret a manner as possible. Fears were entertained that if he was recognized serious trouble would result.

Six of the persons taken into custody last night were to-day charged with riot. Their names are Charles Gaylor, Henry Miller, Patrick McCann, Victor Badie, Rasendo Aruna and Thomas Oonnors. The penalty for rioting is two years imprisonment in the county jail or $2000 fine, or both fine and imprisonment.

The Goldenson family began moving from their Hayes-street home this morning. While doing so a crowd gathered, creating a disturbance and damaging some of the furniture slightly. The police arrived on the scene and prevented further trouble.

The Evening Post in its editorial column this evening announces that it has opened a subscription list for a fund to be used to employ special counsel to prosecute Goldenson, the murderer of Mamie Kelly. It starts the list with $50.

Gray to be Pardoned.

SAN QUENTIN, November 13.—At a meeting of the State Board of Prison Directors, a recommendation in favor John S Gray, Ex-Secretary of the State Board of Harbor Commissioners was unanimously agreed upon. Gray was sent for ten years for embezzlement. The petition sets forth that he has already served more than half his term as reduced by the Goodwin Act, and that the demands of justice have been satisfied; that he has more than atoned for his transgression; that serious results are likely to follow from any further incarceration and also that the interests and welfare of his family demand his liberation.

A Race For Big Money.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 13.—A trotting race, free for all, for a purse of $5000 has been arranged to take place at the Bay District track in this city, on November 27. The following famous trotters are entered: Arab, record, 17¼; Guy Wilkes, 15¼; Charles Hilton, 17½, Harry Wilkes, 14¾; Antevolo, 19; Oliver K, 16¼.

Result of a Shooting.

REDWOOD CITY, Cal., November 13.—Mrs. Eugene Walker died this morning at Woodside, near this town. Mrs. Walker will be remembered as the lady who was shot at Arroyo Grande, San Luis Obispo county, last March when her husband was assassinated. She was brought to this town, her old home, as soon as possible after the shooting. She leaves one child.

Peace of Europe Assured.

BUDA PESTH, November 13.—Count Kalnoky, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the whole of the Austro-Hungarian empire, to-day made a speech before the delegations, declaring the imperial foreign policy. The tenor of the address was pacific. In fact, Count Kalnoky's speech was a re-echo of the sentiments lately expressed by Tiozas, maintaining the latter's declaration that the peace of Europe was for the present assured.

Mrs. Stewart's Will.

NEW YORK, November 13.—The will of Mrs. A. T. Stewart was admitted to probate this morning.

A Horse Killed.

Two young horses attached to a wagon ran away at 6:30 P. M yesterday, the driver having lost control over them. A jolt threw him out without doing him much harm. The horses then ran down Fort street where the king bolt broke, leaving the wagon behind. The horses ran on with the pole dangling between them until between Eighth and Ninth street they struck a tree. The left horse was thrown so violently against the trunk of the tree that he died in two minutes. The other horse again broke away, leaving his dead companion behind and was not caught.

Graves, the Evangelist.

Corner Fort and Sixth street, Rev. P. W. Dorsey, Pastor. The evangelist, Rev. A P. Graves, D. D., will preach at 11 A. M. Subject; "Evidences of Conversion, or How may I Know that I am a Christian;" evening, "The Family of Christ." At 8 o'clock in the afternoon the evangelist will relate his personal Christian experience, after which the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

A FARCICAL INVESTIGATION.

No Facts Brought Out, but Plenty to Think About.

The committee, composed of Councilmen S. M. Perry, chairman, and J. Kuhrts and E. W. Jones, members, appointed to investigate the charges preferred against Chief of Police Davis by Officer Fonck, met at the Council Chambers yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Neither party was represented by counsel. With the exception of Dr. Baker, Health Officer, ex-Chief King, ex-Chief Cuddy and Mrs. Fonck, all the witnesses called were police officers. All witnesses were placed under the rule, being excluded with the exception of the one testifying.

Dr. Baker, the first witness called, knew nothing about the charges, except by hearsay, and refused to answer the question put by Fonck, whether he had ever played himself in a gambling house, because it would criminate him.

Officer Fonck then took the stand. He testified in substance that when Davis went into office, Captain Ketler came to him and made him a proposal, which he said emanated from Chief Davis, to the effect that they might as well make something out of the Chinese gamblers. He proposed that they should "let them play and pay." Davis told Fonck the next day that he had no objection to the Chinese gambling, but that he would not let white men do so. Fonck then sent for Chong Wo, a Chinse gambler, who came to his house to meet Chief Davis. Instead of the Chief, Ketler came, and the Chinaman refused to make his arrangements with him. He wanted to deal with the Chief personally. Fonck had no further knowledge of what was done afterwards, excepting that the dens in Chinatown were in full blast and not interfered with by the regular officers on duty. He charged that in July last he found a gambling house running at 16 N. Spring street, up stairs, and advised the Chief of it. The Chief offered Fonck $25 to catch the gamblers. Fonck explained his plans to Davis, in which an unprotected window played a great part. Though the Chief offered him five men to help in the raid, he could not avail himself of them next evening because the window was then protected. The officer referred to several other cases to prove that Davis was aware that games were running and in what places. Finally he claimed he was prepared to raid the gambling houses on the 17th of October. It was the police themselves who advised the gamblers on the night before, so that they all closed up. The Chief forbade the witness positively to make any raid without his consent once when he and Weed had "pulled" forty-eight Chinamen playing tan.

Councilman Kuhrts. Is it not a fact that you have made such charges against every Chief of Police about election time?

A. I do not so. I have only made one charge against Ex-Chief King, and it was not for gambling.

Mr. Kuhrts made his usual reference to the time he was in the Council before and said that Ex Chief Harris had also pulled off the witnesses' star.

The witness denied and explained that it was quite another officer who had thus been punished. He here took occasion to tell the Committee that they were defending the Chief, instead of hearing the testimony.

Officer Benedict, called, said that anything of a confidential nature that had passed between him and Davis or Fonck he would not divulge. He admitted that Davis had implied to him that as he was going to keep the office only one year he would make all he could. Capt. Ketler denied that it was he who approached Fonck but said that it was the latter who wanted Ketler to approach Davis in regard to the Chinese gamblers. He denied everything that Fonck had said, but could not answer the pertinent question put by Fonck why he did not arrest him if it was true he was trying to get the Captain and Chief to accept bribes from Chinamen otherwise than by saying: "Your star has been taken off half a dozen times for disorderly conduct."

Mrs. Fonck testified that she saw Ketler at her house and overheard him say that the Chief had sent him there to fix the matter of the tan game.

Police Officer Weed testified that Davis never put a stop to the raids but wanted to be notified. He did not seem to like the raid they had made on the Chinamen.

Police Officer Horner knew nothing either one way or the other and that was also Jackson's fix.

Officer Horner never knew of Davis obstructing the men in raiding or of taking bribes to let gambling go on.

Q. Do you know whether there is any gambling going on now?

A. Only by hearsay. I have never been in one.

Councilman Jones: Are we to have hearsay evidence?

Fonck (excitedly): If you stand in with the Chief you I am gone! (To Horner): "Are you not now collecting money for Chief Davis from the Chinamen?"

A. Never in my life.

Q. Did you ever give him money on the sly?

A. No. I have borrowed money of him and returned it.

Q. Did not you and Davis have a conversation last night (Friday) in which it was proposed to offer me $200 to withdraw these charges?

A. Never in my life.

Fonck wanted Chung Wo called but he could not be got.

Ex-Chief King testified that Fonck had been suspended by him for unruliness. Fonck wanted to explain, but Councilman Kuhrtz interrupted him with a snarly: "It is not necessary, I know all about it." Fonck was finally allowed to explain. It cuts no figure in this case.

Officer Mannon knew nothing about gambling; had heard something somewhere about such a thing, but that was all.

Chief Davis branded all the charges as false in all particulars. He might have made mistakes. Believed there was gambling going on, but it was hard to catch the gamblers. He could only account for the fact that the gamblers got scent of the proposed raid of October 17 by the fact that some one might have overheard Dr. Stansbaugh telling him on the afternoon of the 16th that gambling ought to be stopped. That evening several persons reported to him that the dens were closed; none of those who told him were policemen.

Ex-Chief J. J. Cuddy testified as to the character of Fonck as an officer. He said that though he knew nothing against Fonck he did not like him for an officer.

This concluded the evidence, and the committee adjourned to report at the Council meeting to morrow.

St. Jacobs Oil grants a new lease of strength and restores to health and activity.

Jeffrey Lewis.

This talented lady and her company, including the favorite actor, Mr. "Harry Mainhall," will open a short season, commencing Thursday, November 18th, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday night. We are very glad to have Miss Davis open her engagement in the powerful French play of "Clothilde," for in this style of play she has no equal on the American stage, a fact conceded by the entire Press of the country. During her short stay she will also produce article 47, East Lynne and Diplomacy. The company is also very strong, organized for a great favorite in Frisco, and also in the East. Chas. J. Edmonds and Mrs Chas J. Edmonds, Miss Trella Foltz, and many other familiar faces, will be seen with pleasure. It is said by the management that this is Miss Lewis' last engagement on the Pacific Coast. We hope not, for she has many admirers as an artiste here, and all will regret to give her up.

A FINE BUILDING.

Los Angeles National Bank Block.

A FULL DESCRIPTION OF IT.

A Solid Financial Institution—The Building, its Contents and Occupants.

To-day the HERALD presents a handsome illustration of the fine block nearly completed at the corner of First and Spring streets, and known as the Los Angeles National Bank Block. The institution whose name it bears, is one of the most solid and prosperous financial concerns on the coast. Its president is Major George H. Bonebreak; vice-president, John Bryson Sr,; and cashier, F. C. Howes. The gentlemen comprising the board of directors are Dr. W. C. Cochrane, Hon. P. M. Green, Dr. H. Sinsabaugh, Hon. H. H. Markham, John Bryson Sr., F. C. Howes and Major Bonebreak. All of the gentlemen rank among our best citizens, and those who have the management of the bank directory in charge deserve great credit for the prudent manner in which they have conducted its affairs. Every name among the list of officers, directors and stockholders stands high in financial and commercial circles and that the public appreciates this fact and the wise and conservative management is apparent from the large and rapidly increasing patronage bestowed upon this solid institution. Its capital at present is $300,000 with a surplus of $20,000. No financial institution in this city has shown as large a proportionate increase of business in a given period as the Los Angeles National Bank. The business, indeed, developed so rapidly that sometime since the management determined to secure a building of their own in every respect adapted to the needs of the institution and for that purpose purchased the lot at the corner of First and Spring streets adjoining the postoffice. This site is unquestionably the best in the city for business purposes. It is the very heart of Los Angeles and is probably the most valuable piece of property on Spring street. The bank management about six months ago commenced the construction of their block and from an architectural standpoint there is no more handsome or substantial structure in the city. The following facts about the building will be read with interest: It is three stories in height, its dimensions being 60x80. The first story is 17 feet high, the second story 14 feet high, and the upper story, or Masonic hall, 20 feet high. On the first floor is located the bank apartment, 20 feet wide and 60 feet deep, with directors' room adjoining, 11x20 feet, and two stores, 18x77 feet each.

LOS ANGELES NATIONAL BANK BLOCK.

The bank is finished in white oak. The floor is to be tiled with encaustic tiling. The counters are furnished by Andrews & Son, Chicago. The three large plates of glass are the largest in the city, and were furnished by Messrs. Raphael & Schlesinger.

The building is constructed of pressed brick with granite trimmings, all the granite being furnished and cut by Evans & Middleton from Santa Anita cañon. The brick work over the store fronts and bank window rests on 15 rolled iron beams, furnished, together with all cast iron work by Messrs. M. S. Baker & Co., the beams being shipped from Pittsburg. The galvanized iron was furnished by the Harper-Reynolds Company of this city.

In the basement below the bank are four offices, each about 14x20, with a height of nine feet, which will command a high rental for real estate, insurance offices, etc. The sidewalk is supported by rolled beams and brick arches, over which the cement sidewalk is laid, thus utilizing all the space below the sidewalk.

On the second floor are located sixteen offices approached by a stairway from First street. All offices will be well lighted and ventilated. Glass doors connect the offices with the hall. The halls are wainscotted with paneled oak wainscotting thirty-six inches high.

The third floor will be used as a Masonic Hall. Its dimensions are 37x56. It is twenty feet high with a banqueting hall adjoining 20x44, connected with the main hall by two pairs of sliding doors Five anti-rooms, 10x12 each, are connected with the main hall. The hall is well ventilated with the latest improvements. In the rear is a gallery which extends over the anti-rooms.

The building throughout is one of the most elegantly equipped in the city, and for business purposes the stores and offices will doubtless command the highest rents. The bank quarters, when completed, will surpass those of any bank in the city. The removal of the corporation from their present location on Main street will take place in a few weeks.

DESMOND, THE HATTER.

His New Store in the Bank Building.

The hat store of D. Desmond, in Temple Block, Main street, was long one of the land marks of Los Angeles. Mr. Desmond has been in business in this city for over sixteen years, and his business has well kept pace with the growth of the city. In view of the fact that the old quarters could not begin to accommodate his rapidly growing trade Mr. Desmond determined to make a change and has been fortunate in securing one of the elegant new store rooms in the National Bank building, No. 4 North Spring street. Mr. Desmond has always had the lion's share of the hat trade in this city for the simple reason that his stock is the largest, finest and most complete south of San Francisco. Mr. Desmond is a practical hatter himself and thoroughly understands his business. He carries everything in the hat line from the handsomest silk goods down, including a full line of youth's and children's hats. He imports his goods directly from the leading factories, and the latest styles can always be found at Desmond's. In his new store in the Bank block, Mr. Desmond has a truly metropolitan establishment. It is complete in all its appointments, and the line of goods surpasses anything before seen in this city. The handsome show windows are full of attractions, which cannot fail to attract purchasers. It should be added that Mr. Desmond carries one of the finest lines of gentlemen's furnishing goods in the city. All the nobby, stylish articles kept by the leading establishments of New York, Chicago and San Francisco may be found at his house, and it will well repay those in need of anything in the furnishing goods line to call on him. All who know Mr. Desmond will wish him the abundant success he deserves in his handsome new establishment.

POHLHAUS & VOLLMER.

Removed to New Quarters in the Bank Building.

The first store in the Bank Building, adjoining the postoffice, is occupied by Messrs. Pohlhaus & Vollmer, wholesale and retail dealers in crockery, glassware, silverware, etc. Messrs. Pohlhaus & Vollmer have now the leading house in their line in the city, and their new stock of goods is well worth examining. As a matter of news of special interest to the hundreds of families now locating in this city and surrounding towns the HERALD reporter desires to say that in the house furnishing line no finer goods can be found in Southern California than are offered by Messrs. Pohlhaus & Vollmer. They make a specialty of hotel goods, and have already filled several large orders from hotels. Hotel men at all points in Southern California will find it greatly to their advantage to deal with Messrs. Pohlhaus & Vollmer. They are able to give bottom figures and to fill all orders promptly.

An examination of the stock of Messrs. Pohlhaus & Vollmar shows a very fine line of crockery goods imported from the leading manufacturers. They have goods which for beauty and delicacy of finish have never been surpassed. The same may be said of their glass and silver ware.

In the art line they have a large variety of goods, and those desiring parlor and lawn ornaments will do well to give them a call. They carry a stock of majolica ware, a full line of chandeliers, lamps and lamp fixtures, and a line of wood and willow ware. Their stock of carlsbad china is the best in the city. They carry two patterns in open stock which is a great convenience to purchasers, as if any portion of a dinner or tea set is lost or broken it can be immediately replaced. The new establishment of Messrs. Pohlhaus & Vollmer is in every respect highly creditable to the city and they will undoubtedly receive the patronage their enterprise deserves.

McNALLY & YOUNG.

The Stone and Brick Work—A Mammoth Vault.

One of the most important contracts let on the Bank Block and one of the largest, was the brick and stone work. As nothing but first-class material was to be used in this line, it is needless to say that the contract would only be let to a first-class mechanic, one who is a master of his business and could be relied upon to do a first-class job. Therefore it is with pleasure that the HERALD alludes to the contractor. A. McNally, in these complimentary terms. All who have inspected the exterior of this handsome building, including many critical judges, have seen at a glance that the brick work on the building was no small job. Indeed, on the contrary, it is as large if not the largest piece of work in this line in Los Angeles. Mr. McNally has received the highest praise from the architects, Messrs. Keyser & Morgan, and the proprietors of the building, who are more than pleased with his work, and pronounce it one of the best executed and most satisfactory jobs that has come under their supervision.

THE VAULT.

The vault in the bank is another important piece of work and was also built by A. McNally. It is built from the foundation of the building up and is one of the most secure vaults in the State. The size of it is 12x10 feet and the interior of it is 9 feet high. There are two compartments in the bank vault, each being 4x7 feet in size. Both are burglar and fire proof and are lined with steel. The doors are made of double wrought iron. One of the departments will be used for storing the coin and the other for valuable papers. The lower vault, in the basement, will be turned over to the use of the tenants. The vault is built of the strongest kind of brick and cement, and the brick is two feet thick. A four-inch air space, which acts as a non-conductor of heat has also been made in the vault. Mr. McNally deserves especial credit for this fine piece of workmanship. Mr. McNally is one of the leading contractors in his line, and undoubtedly the largest. He has built a great many buildings in Los Angeles and his work has always been his best advertisement. Among the many buildings he has done work on may be mentioned the new California Block, now in course of erection, the United States Hotel, the Lankershim Building, the Wilson Block and many others. There is no danger that Mr. McNally will not be able to take care of all future orders, for he has recently put new blood in his company in the person of Mr. Young, an experienced brick and stone mason, and the firm is now known as McNally & Young.

THE PLUMBING.

The Work Done by the Harper-Reynolds Co.

All the plumbing and the work about the Los Angeles Bank Block has been done by the Harper-Reynolds Hardware Co., 48 and 50 South Main street. This is equivalent to saying that it has been done well, for all jobs turned out by this company have invariably given satisfaction. The Harper and Reynolds Hardware Company is the largest concern of the kind in the city. While referring to the perfect job they have accomplished in the Bank Block, it seems an excellent opportunity to call attention to the splendid facilities this company has for transacting promptly business of all kinds in the hardware line. They have a large factory on Alameda street fitted up with the latest improved machinery, and they employ none but the most skilful mechanics. One of their specialties is sanitary plumbing and their splendid work in various buildings of the city has frequently been referred to in the Herald. Having the best facilities for doing all jobs of this kind, they guarantee promptness, perfect work and the most reasonable prices. The plumbing of a building is one of the most important features of the work of construction, and while there are many plumbers, all cannot be depended upon. In the numerous buildings in Los Angeles and vicinity in which the plumbing has been done by the Harper & Reynolds Co. there has never been a word of complaint of carelessness or imperfect work. This fact alone shows the confidence which can be placed in them. In referring to this company no special mention has been made of the other extensive branches of their business. It is sufficient to add that in every respect this house is the most complete hardware establishment south of San Francisco.

ELEGANT FURNITURE.

How Masonic Hall Is to Be Fitted Up.

As stated elsewhere in this article, the top story of the building will be occupied by the Masonic Order of Los Angeles. This floor has been specially laid out for the order, and will be decorated in magnificent style. The furniture will, of course, be correspondingly fine and of the very best material. The committee, who had charge of the selection of the furniture, visited every furniture store in Los Angeles, and finally closed with Bryant and Walton, whom they found could supply the identical kind of furniture they wanted and at prices lower than any other house in the furniture business. A description of the furniture will be found interesting, as it is among the very finest that has ever come to Southern California. The large chair for the most eminent Grand Commander is made of walnut, with the emblems of the lodge on the back. It is upholstered in blue and dark patterned electric plush, the best that is made, or can be made. Two chairs, one on the south side of the hall and the other on the west side of the hall, are made of this material. Then there are twelve chairs for the officers, covered with blue silk, brocaded plush, upholstered with the finest material. The society also selected one hundred fine chairs, upholstered in blue electric plush, with carved walnut frames. The banquet room will have beautiful extension tables, and chairs to match, which are all being manufactured to order by Bryant and Walton. The firm, though comparatively new, has taken a leading position among the mercantile houses and carries an immense stock, to which they are constantly adding. They have the finest line of antique chairs, covered in plush and embossed leather, all colors and styles, among which are the finest ever seen in Southern California. Their parlor sets are very beautiful as well as reasonable in price, and embrace Alhambra plushes in assorted colors with many new designs. Their bed-room sets embrace many different kinds and prices. They have elegant walnut sets, and low priced bed-room suites of extra quality of workmanship. The firm also gives special attention to making parlor suites to order from samples of elegant plushes of the latest designs and in all colors. Any lady or gentleman can call and get their choice of covering and odd pieces of every description, and made to suit their own taste. They have 500 different patterns in plushes to select from, some of which have just arrived. Their prices are the lowest in Los Angeles. They are the same as those given to the trade. Parties purchasing of this firm can secure wholesale prices with the freight added. This energetic and enterprising firm are entitled to the lucrative business they now enjoy. Bryant & Walton are thorough business men and a glance at their stock and prices will convince you that you can do better with them than any firm in the city.

The Carpets—Lion & Co.

Mention has been made above to the elegant manner in which the Masonic Hall has been furnished. The carpeting of the main hall has been done by Lion & Co., 116 W. First street, Nadeau block. The finest body Brussels carpeting has been used in the main hall and in the other rooms the finest Wiltons. Lion & Co. have the only exclusive carpet store in Los Angeles, and during the seven or eight months they have been in business here they have built up an immense trade. Those who are contemplating carpeting their houses will find it greatly to their advantage to call on Lion & Co. Their stock is the largest and pricest the lowest. They have both a wholesale and retail department, and in both branches are at present offering special inducements.

Interior Decorations—Prof. Romeo Berra.

One of the special attractions of the bank when it opens will be the interior decorations. A HERALD reporter was kindly shown the design by Professor Romeo Berra, who has the contract to do the decorating both in the bank and in the Masonic Hall in the building. The plan of decorating is an original one Professor Berra. The form is an Egyptian one in fresco colors. The center part of the ceiling is prospective work and will show the ceiling so as to make it look several feet higher than it is. The design on the ceiling is beautiful and the effect is very pleasing to the eye. The emblems of commerce, industry, agriculture and a bee-hive, the last emblematic of the bank, will be placed in different corners of the ceiling. After the prospective work the decorations open into a beautiful sky scene and in the center of the ceiling will be a fine silk drapery, trimmed with gold. Over the large window at the entrance will be an Egyptian chariot, and the borders will be trimmed in gold to correspond with the subject. Prof. Romeo Berra has been in Los Angeles six months. His reputation as an artist is widespread, and his work on the bank will surpass anything in its line in Southern California. Prof. Berra has done some fresco and ornamental painting that in point of style, beauty of finish and elegance in design has not been surpassed here.

The Iron Work, Baker's Foundry

The iron work for this massive structure was no small undertaking and the contract was let to the old reliable Baker Iron Works. The iron work was all specially cast and done in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. The HERALD has before alluded to the number of large contracts that the Baker Iron Works has executed and it is with pleasure that we mention their fine job on this occasion. To describe all the work done in the building by this firm would take up too much space; but suffice to add they have furnished everything in the building in their line, and this is saying a great deal when it is understood that the building is constructed mainly of iron and brick. The Baker Iron Works is the largest south of San Francisco. It has recently been moved to more commodious quarters near the railroad depot, the office of the works fronting on Buena Vista street. They both manufacture and import machinery of every kind used in this country. They carry a stock of boilers and engines of some of the best known eastern manufacturers and employ competent and skilled workingmen and turn out the very best kind of work. They are now building a number of street cars for companies in this city, Pasadena, and for the, Santa Ana Tustin and Orange Street Railroad Company.

FINANCE and TRADE.

Government Bonds and Railway Shares.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Government bonds dull and steady.

The stock market was again extremely irregular, though prices in the morning showed gains which in many cases were lost in the afternoon. Prominent advances as usual were in special stocks, while New York and New England and Manhattan were specially weak. Reports of rate-cutting in the West seemed to have little effect upon prices, as did also unusually favorable bank statements. Prices showed some weakness in the first few minutes, but the market soon rallied and advanced steadily with a few exceptions until after 10 o'clock. In the last hour heavy realizing carried prices back and the market closed rather heavy. Petroleum was strong and excited, with very heavy trading. It opened at 72½ @72¾, rose steadily to 74⅞, reached and closed strong and excited at 74¼.

The New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Three per cent Government bonds, 100¼; four per cents, 127¾; four and a half per cents, 111; Denver & Rio Grande, 13²¾; Kansas & Texas, 130⅝; Northern Pacific, 129⅛; preferred, 164⅛; Chicago & Northwestern, 119; New York Central, 113¼; Oregon Navigation, 107¼; Transcontinental, 136½; Oregon Improvement, 138; Pacific Mail Steamship, 154¼; Panama Railway, 98; Texas & Pacific, 12¹⅞; Union Pacific, 160¾; United States Express, 161; Wells, Fargo & Co's Express, 127; Western Union Telegraph; 178½; Central Pacific, 147¾.

New York Money Market.

NEW YORK, November 13.—Money on call—4½ per cent, closing 5 per cent asked; Prime Paper, 4@6 per cent.

Sterling Exchange dull and unsettled. Actual rates $4.80½; for sixty-day bills $4.84 for demand.

Mining Stocks.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly on the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Company, Piqua, O. Sold by C. F. Heinzeman.

Now Has Faith.

I had been troubled all winter with cold and pain in the chest and got no relief from remedies recommended by Druggists and Physicians. At the same time I was advertising Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup, I had little faith, but thought to try it as a last resort, now I believe even more than they tell me of its curative qualities. [From the News, Elizabethtown, Ky.]. Sample bottle 5 cents at C. F. Heinzeman's.

Electro Magnetism, the New Means of Cure.

Dr. E. Robbins' Electro-Magnetic Institute, corner of First and Spring streets, entrance on First street, is now fitted up at considerable expense, with everything that is necessary to cure chronic and so-called incurable diseases, by the finest electrical apparatus in the world. Turkish and Russian baths; also electric, sulphur and eucalyptus baths. Dr. Robbins has had several year's experience in the Australian colonies, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Denver, and four years in Los Angeles, and hundreds of leading citizens can testify to the wonderful effects of electricity in curing cases of chronic diseases when all else had failed, and therefore all persons suffering should try this new remedy before abandoning all hope. After every medical treatment the patients are given the Massage treatment by persons of their own sex. The doctor diagnoses diseases without explanation from the patient, free of charge. His office hours are 9 to 12, 1 to 5 and 7 to 9. Bath department open Sundays from 8 A. M. to 12 M.

A Sensible Man

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs. It is curing more cases of coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, croup and all throat and lung troubles, than any other medicine. ## THE GREATEST STUDY OF Mankind is Man.

And who e'er his wondrous frame doth scan, ponder and devise to cure an ill, whether by device, fruit or pill, an equal benefactor is he; and we haste, the inventor of a Cathartic of delicious taste, to do him honor. Who remembers not how the distressed mother, her child's entreaties tries to smother, that she insist not the horrid dose be taken, the remembrance o'en now does nausea awaken, and fond father, to be witness of his child's torture, would rather pay high price, if money could purchase Cathartic nice. We have it now! And great DR PRATT'S name, appears upon the scroll of Esculapian fame, for after long study what would suit, has hit upon delicious fruit to cure our ills. Away at once with draughts and pills; for whether it be indigestion, liver complaint or constipation, or any disease to which flesh is heir, he here with pride does boldly declare, and on the assertion will wager big, that it can be cured by a

CONCENTRATION

.....IN.....

COMPETITION.

THE UNKNOWN QUANTITY HAS BEEN THE STUMBLING BLOCK TO MANY AN ambitious merchant, who, desiring to excel, has forgotten that others in the same vocation may possess a greater amount of energy, have greater facilities for purchasing seasonable goods, obtain and retain the confidence of the public in an equal, if not a greater degree, and at the same time be ready to push trade to such an extent by throwing on the market values which will not only be bought eagerly, but at the same time have a tendency to awaken the minds of the people to a strict realization of the truth in every particular and give an opportunity of purchasing at two-thirds value. Competition can only exist when two or more, striving for the supremacy, concentrate their energies at a given point. Then the successful one can fairly lay claim to the superiority. There can be but one topmost round to a ladder, and we lay claim to this distinction, both in purchasing to the best advantage and in selling quickly at reasonable prices. Shop-worn goods are dear at any price and are not desirable, even to fill up empty shelves. Seven weeks more and the year 1886 will be a thing of the past, and as the year goes out our surplus stock must go too. We do not expect to give merchandise away, but from NOVEMBER 17TH TO DECEMBER 30TH, inclusive, we are going to sell at such prices which will not only interest generally, but be advantageous to every one needing seasonable goods. Watch these columns closely.

TESTIMONIALS.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 26, 1886.

This is to certify that I came to Dr. Dawson on the third day of this month, being afflicted with Indigestion, Headache and General Debility. To-day I can eat a good square meal; headache all gone, and feel strong in body, and do say that Dr. Dawson's treatment is a success, for I feel ten years younger from the effect of the treatment. JAMES JANES.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—This is to say that I came to Dr. Dawson experiencing all the distressing effects of a debilitated nervous system, and since receiving the Doctor's treatment I can say that I feel like another man. The Doctor treats by Electro-Magnetism, or by a new system of Massage, which sends the current at once to the afflicted part, and the result is truly miraculous. The Doctor is a gentleman and deserves your patronage. W. J. DEEMS.

DR. DAWSON: Dear Sir:—I feel so grateful to you for curing my cough. I am quite free from pain which I had in my chest, shoulders and back, and am now gaining in flesh very fast. I had two brothers and one sister to die with consumption, and was sure that I was taken with the dreaded disease; but, thanks to your successful treatment, I feel a new wo an.
MRS. E. PATTERSON.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 1, 1886.

D. W. DAWSON: Dear Sir:—I am happy to inform you that I am entirely relieved of rheumatism, thanks to your valuable Magnetic treatment. I have been previously troubled with the dreaded disease; have been laid up for a month at a time; by the aid of crutches I managed to get to your office, and after three treatments I feel entirely relieved, for which I am thankful to you and your wonderful treatment.

Ordinance No. 262.

An ordinance granting a franchise for the construction and operation of a Cable Street-railroad in the city of Los Angeles to Henry N. Galloway, J. M. Thompson, Geo. C. Knox and their assigns.

The Mayor and Council of the city of Los Angeles do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. That the right of way be and the same is hereby granted to Henry N. Galloway, J. M. Thompson, Geo. C. Knox and their assigns, over and along the public street of this city named in this ordinance, for the period of thirty years from and after the date of the passage of this ordinance, for the purpose of making all necessary excavations for, and constructing or laying down, maintaining and operating a double-track cable street-railroad, with iron or steele rails, and running cars thereon; that is to say: Commencing at the intersection of Charity street with the north boundary of Jefferson street; thence northerly along Charity street, on each side of the center line thereof, to the intersection of Charity street with the south boundary of Temple street.

Provided, and upon condition that the said grantees or their assigns shall plank, pave, asphalt or macadamize the entire length of said route along which said road may be constructed between the rails and for two feet on each side thereof with such material, in such manner, and at such time or times as the Council of the city of Los Angeles, or that body, person or persons who may by operation of law succeed to the right, duties or privileges of the Council of the city of Los Angeles may determine, and shall keep the same constantly in repair, flush with the streets, and provided with good crossings for all kinds of vehicles, and with all necessary and proper flumes and culverts for the free and uninterrupted passage of water under said track from lands higher than the said track or roadbed is required to be, whenever and wherever the Council of the city of Los Angeles, or the successor of said Council, shall order the flumes or culverts to be placed.

Provided further, That the tracks be not more than (3½) three and one-half feet gauge between the rails, and that the rails be well guarded with planks and stringers, stone blocks or asphalt paving, and there be sufficient space between the tracks and each of the tracks and side-tracks or turn-outs to allow the cars to pass freely and without danger.

And provided, further, that the paving of said tracts, except as hereinafter provided, shall conform in all cases, when any grade has been established, to such established grade and in all other cases to the natural grade of the street through which they may run, and when at any time any part of said route shall be graded or the grade thereof changed or altered the bed of the road and the tracks thereof shall be made to conform therewith. And, provided, further, that no turn-out or switch shall be constructed except in places designated by the Council of the city of Los Angeles, nor shall said turn-out, in any case, be nearer than twenty-five feet to the junction of any two streets, or the intersection of any cross street.

And, provided, further, that the rate of fare for any distance along said road and a transfer to or from the Spring street terminus of either of the cable roads running to Spring street, the company to have the option of which road to transfer to, shall at no time exceed five cents for one passenger.

Provided, further, and upon condition that if at any time for the space of six months the said road or any portion thereof be unused as a street railroad, the franchise for the said portion so unused shall be thereby forfeited.

SECTION 2. It is understood that the grant of this franchise gives to the grantees or their assigns the right to excavate for and construct, lay down and maintain a single line of track over and along said route and operate the same until the grantees or their assigns may deem it necessary or expedient to construct, lay down or maintain a double track, as aforesaid. And it is further understood that the grant of this right carries with it the right to construct, erect, lay down and maintain such engine houses, engines, boilers, machinery, turn outs, and switches as may be necessary or proper for the operation of said road. It is further understood that the City in making the grant of this franchise expressly reserves the right to grade, renew, sewer, construct zanjas, pave, macadamize improve, alter or repair all or either of said streets, or any part thereof, and to lay down pipes for water, gas and other purposes, such work to be done by the City so as to obstruct or injure said road as little as possible. And the City shall have the right at all times to use, manage and control said streets to the same extent and with the same power as if this franchise had not been granted. But when such work makes the same necessary, the owner or owners of said road must shift the rails so as to avoid the obstruction made thereby.

SECTION 3. The above rights and privileges are granted upon the express condition that the said road shall be commenced within thirty days from the taking effect of this ordinance and be fully completed, equipped, stocked and in actual operation within ten months of the date of the passage of this ordinance.

It is further understood that this franchise is especially granted upon each and all of the provisions and conditions herein contained and reserved, and if said grantees or their assigns shall fail in any particular to comply therewith, or with either of them, then and in that case, all rights to this franchise shall be thereby forfeited, and this grant shall be null and void; and that nothing therein contained shall be construed as granting an exclusive franchise.

SECTION 4. The Clerk of the Council shall certify to the passage of this ordinance and shall cause the same to be published once in the Los Angeles DAILY HERALD and thereupon and thereafter it shall take effect and be in force.

I hereby certify that the foregoing ordinance was adopted by the Council of the city of Los Angeles at its meeting of November 8th, A. D. 1886.

W. W. ROBINSON,
Clerk of the Council of the City of Los Angeles.

Approved this 12th day of November, A. D. 1886. E. F. SPENCE, Mayor. It

THE GREATEST ATTRACTION YET OFFERED IN THE WAY OF A DESIRABLE REAL ESTATE INVESTMENT and for BEAUTIFUL VILLA HOMES as well as for business is the

New Town of Ramona.

MR. J. DE BARTH SHORB, President of the San Gabriel Wine Company, has subdivided and put upon the market FIVE HUNDRED ACRES of as CHOICE LAND as there is in Southern California, SITUATED ON THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD, south of and adjoining SHORB'S STATION.

Only Six Miles from the City of Los Angeles,

Being the first station east. SIX EXPRESS TRAINS DAILY. Location for HEALTHFULNESS, CLIMATE, PRODUCTIVENESS OF SOIL and BEAUTIFUL SCENERY is unsurpassed. It is well sheltered by the beautiful foothills surrounding it; is in full view and only FOUR MILES FROM "THE RAYMOND," the finest hotel in Southern California, and THREE MILES FROM SOUTH PASADENA.

The Character of the Soil is Alluvial,

VERY RICH AND EASILY CULTIVATED. THE RAINFALL IS GREATER THAN MANY PORTIONS OF THE VALLEY, and the soil retains the moisture, and the growth of vegetation, trees and vines is wonderful. It is adapted to ORANGES and LEMONS, being well sheltered and FREE FROM FOG AND FROST.

Vineyards do Exceedingly Well,

As has been demonstrated, as also all kinds of DECIDUOUS FRUITS. It adjoins the ALHAMBRA TRACT, which is very highly improved; as also the SAN GABRIEL WINE COMPANY'S LARGE VINEYARD; is very accessible to the city, and, with greater railroad facilities now under contemplation, cheap and rapid transit, one can attend to business in the city and at the same time have a ### Delightful, Healthful Home.

THE WATER IS SUPPLIED FROM A PRIVATE, INDISPUTABLE SOURCE AND OF THE PUREST QUALITY. IT WILL BE PIPED THROUGH THE PRINCIPAL STREETS OF THE TOWN, so each and every one can have

An Abundant Supply at All Times.

It is the intention of the President of the Company to place this property on the market at VERY ATTRACTIVE PRICES and on REASONABLE TERMS OF PAYMENT—much less, considering its many advantages and surroundings, than any like property in the valley. THE TRACT IS SUBDIVIDED IN LOTS AND BLOCKS OF ALL SIZES so any one can be suited, and those who desire to avail themselves of an opportunity for investment this is a splendid chance, and those who select early will have a decided advantage as to location and prices.

Facts About Pens.

For over 4000 years people have found it necessary to write. Various materials have been used to write upon, and various instruments have been used to write with. The earliest we hear of a pen is in the book of Job, where he, the author, speaks of an "iron pen," probably a pointed instrument for engraving on stone. For the waxen tablets of the ancients a metallic stylus was employed, one end of which was sharpened and the other flattened for erasing the marks and smoothing the wax. For centuries the Chinese have painted their letters with a fine hair pencil. Pens of reed were also used at a very early period for the use of a fluid ink upon papyrus; the end of the reed was split, as the pens we use at present, and they were about the size of a swan's quil. The introduction of paper rendered finer pens necessary, and the well known quill pens of the goose and swan came next into use. These were first employed in Europe about the year A. D. 630, and several centuries Poland and Russia were largely engaged in raising flocks of geese chiefly for their quills. In a single year, it is said, St. Petersburg furnished England with over 27,000,000 of these articles. In 1803, Mr Wise, of Great Britain, produced pens of steel, of bare form. These were mounted on bone handles, and could be carried in the pocket. They were expensive and little used. Then, in 1820, Mr. Gillott of Birmingham, began manufacturing steel pens. He added many improvements to the rude barrel-pen made by Mr. Wise. The evolution in pens had now thoroughly started, and experiments to make a pen with a durable point began in England. Bone, shell, glass and various other substances were used for the body of the pen, while diamonds and rubies were used for points; yet pens made of these materials were costly and unsuccessful. This finally led to gold pens, the manufacture of which is carried to the highest perfection in New York, the best pens being made here and sent to Europe and other parts of the world. The first diamond (or iridium) point ever put successfully on a gold pen was done by Mr. John Isaac Hawkins, an American residing in England. The right to make gold pens was purchased of Mr. Hawkins by Mr. Cleveland, an American clergyman then in England, who, on his return, induced Levi Brown, a watchmaker in Detroit, to undertake their manufacture. This was about the year 1835. In 1840 Mr. Brown removed to New York, and there introduced the business, which gradually increased. At first the pens were cut with scissors from a thin, flat slip of gold. Interior pens, thus made, sold for from $5 to $15 each. At present the manufacture of gold pens is divided into branches, each workman doing his part Machinery has been invented, and tools are now used which, in 1835, had never been heard of. New York produces more gold pens than all the other cities of the world combined. All told, there is over $500,000 worth made annually. The trade is rapidly growing, and every year witnesses many thousand dollars' worth of pens in use that were not in use the preceding year.—[Office

A Pretty Woman's Secret.

Fear of discovery, when she resorts to false hair and dyes, is a source of constant anxiety to her. The very persons from whom she most desires to hide the waning of her charms are the ones most likely to make the discovery. But there is no reason why she should not regain and retain all the beauty of hair that was her pride in youth. Let her use AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and, not only will her hair cease to fall out, but a new growth will appear where the scalp has been denuded; and locks that are turning gray, or have actually grown white, will return to their pristine freshness and brilliance of color. All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the Æsculapian system of practice, which enables us to bring the remedies into direct contact with the diseased part. These are in all cases combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, nervous system and blood.

CONSUMPTION.

The earlier symptoms of this disease are a sense of weariness upon little exercise, a disposition to remain passive and idle, a peculiar sensitiveness to the effect of cold, and a shortness of breath upon moving quickly or ascending a hill or stairs; a slight hacking cough, with or without expectoration, flying pains throughout the chest or back or under the shoulder blades. The symptoms are worse toward or during the night; slight fever in the afternoon; cold feet and hands, and in many cases blue lividity of the lips and roots of the finger nails.

The more advanced symptoms are wasting of flesh, diarrhœa, chills and fever, night sweats, expectoration of yellow pus from the ulcers or cavities of the lungs, with or without a depression in the chest, increasing weakness, and at last a closing up of the air passages of the lungs, causing strangulation or suffocation of the patient for want of power to expectorate the mucus from the lungs.

Heretofore the treatment of consumption has been very unsatisfactory, alike to both the physicians and their patients; but, luckily, since the discovery of the Æsculapian system of practice, a few years ago, thousands of cases have been completely cured, where, had it not been for this system of practice, utter failures to combat the evils of the disease would have continued up to the present time. This system is recommended by the highest authorities, both in Europe and America. By this means we are enabled to dissolve the hardened mucus in the lungs, ease the cough, facilitate expectoration, contract and heal ulcers and cavities, after all hope of cure by the ordinary method is past.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedy at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless the disease has advanced to the chest and that both lungs are seriously involved. The inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success. The very best references from those already cured.

IT DULY APPEARING TO THIS COURT from the petition on file herein of Sarah A. Hewitt, the guardian of the person and estate of Donald C. Hewitt, a minor, praying for an order of sale of certain real estate belonging to her said ward, that it is necessary and would be beneficial to said ward that such real estate should be sold. It is hereby ordered that the next of kin of said minor, and all persons interested in the estate of said minor, appear before this Court on

The 6th day of December, 1886,

At 10 o'clock A. M., at the Courtroom of this Court in the city and county of Los Angeles, then and there to show cause why an order for the sale of said real estate should not be granted.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published for at least once a week for at least three successive weeks before the said 6th day of December, 1886, in the Los Angeles DAILY HERALD, a newspaper printed and published in said county of Los Angeles.

Dated November 1st, 1886.

WM. A. CHENY,

nov5-td Judge of the Superior Court.

Notice of Intention.

Notice is hereby given that it is the intention of the Council of the city of Los Angeles to change and establish the grade of Fort street from Rock street northerly, as follows:

At the intersection of the center line of Fort street with the northerly line of Rock street the grade shall remain as now established; at a point on the center line of Fort street, 116 feet northerly from the north boundary of Rock street the grade shall be on the east side of said Fort street 138 84-100 feet above the datum plane, and on the west side of said Fort street 139 40 100 feet above the datum plane; at a point on the center line of Fort street 442 60-100 feet northerly from the north boundary of Rock street the grade shall be on the east side of Fort street 135 47-100 feet above the datum plane, and on the west side of Fort street 136 00 100 feet above the datum plane.

All persons interested are hereby notified to file their objections, if any they have, with the Clerk of the Council of the city of Los Angeles within ten days from the date of the first publication of this notice.

By order of the Council of the city of Los Angeles at its meeting of November 8th, A. D. 1886.

W. W. ROBINSON,

Clerk of the Council of the city of Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, November 10th, 1886. n11 10t

FACTS ABOUT ALASKA.

An Exhibition which Will Do Valuable Work.

Alaska has been an American possession for almost twenty years. Within that time, with one rather noteworthy exception, no effort has been made to develop the resources of the country, and until the Times expedition was dispatched no very practical or systematic effort was made to find out what they are. The exception was furnished by an astute Bostonian who visited the region very early in its history as a possession of the United States, and who thereupon constituted himself a fur seal company. This ingenious promoter was aided by a great stroke of luck, for it was shortly afterward that civilized woman became a fur-bearing animal and clothed herself with the skins of seals in preference to those which she had previously acquired at extravagant prices. The Bostonian and his associates and successors have had an extremely good thing of it during the twenty years or thereabouts since seal became the fashionable fur, having had a monopoly of the trade of Alaska in the only one of its products that has thus far become practically available. They have the aid of revenue cutters in maintaining their monopoly, which is neither to be blamed nor wondered at, assuming that the monopoly itself is justifiable, since in addition to their own enormous profits they are able to turn into the Treasury something like 4 per cent annually upon the cost of Alaska to the United States.

Already Mr. Seward's purchase of Alaska is vindicated as a matter of business. That statesman himself declared that it would take the people of the United States a generation to find out what a benefaction he had bestowed upon them in the purchase. Two-thirds of a generation have elapsed, and it is already evident that if the seal fishery were thrown open to the public under proper safeguards as to the payment of a tax upon the captured seals, the government would receive a handsome income from its investment.

Sealing, however, is somewhat precarious as a source of revenue. A sudden freak of fashion, which has been constant to seals for a singularly long period, would diminish the profits of the seal ring to such an extent as would make its managers indifferent to any poaching that might be practiced upon their preserves. The description published in the Times makes it evident that after this precarious source of revenue is exhausted, other and more trustworthy sources will remain. The destruction of our own forests is going on at so rapid a rate that before long the amount of the "visible supply" an Alaska will be a question of great moment. The persons who have thus far been able to secure the offering of a bounty upon the destruction of our forests by discouraging the importation of Canadian timber through protective duties, will be unable to secure the enactment of a like service to secure the enactment of a like device to keep Alaskan timber out of competition with their own. When the domestic supply becomes manifestly insufficient for our needs, the spruce and cedar of Alaska will be of great national value. It seems as if that time had so nearly arrived as to make it worth the while of enterprising lumbermen to determine precisely the extent and character of the Alaskan forests and their accessibility from the harbors of the coast. It may very possibly be that Alaskan timber can even now be laid down at the ports of the Pacific coast in competition with the timber of Oregon and California themselves. If the time has not yet arrived it is surely not far distant.

The mineral treasures of Alaska will form another addition to the wealth of the nation the importance of which cannot as yet be even vaguely conjectured. There is no doubt that gold exists, and very little that at some time it will be profitably worked. The coal deposits are extensive and valuable and of a more immediate importance. The climate of the southern part of Alaska does not prohibit white men from working the year round, and the Pacific coast, at least, may yet find in Alaska its chief source of fuel supply.

These considerations furnish a complete answer to the suggestion that such explorations as the Times has sent out under the command of Lieutenant Schwatka are of no "practical utility." This might as well have been said of the voyage of Columbus. It is not until regions as remote as Alaska have been brought to the notice of the public by explorers whose motive is an adventurous disposition or a scientific curiosity that the commercial prospector is stimulated to see what can be done towards developing the resources which are thus made known. The reports made to the government can scarcely be said to be brought to the knowledge of the people. When a public newspaper undertakes the work of exploration the results are sure of being made known to those who are likely to feel a commercial interest in them. In this sense the expedition of Lieutenant Schwatka may be said to have done more to realize the expectations which Mr. Seward founded upon his purchase of Alaska than any other event that has happened since the purchase itself.—[N. Y. Times.

The Conflict

Between disease and health is often brief and fatal. It is better to be provided with cheap and simple remedies for such common disorders as coughs, colds, etc., than to run the risk of contracting a fatal disease through neglect. DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM is a sure and safe remedy for all diseases of the lungs and chest. If taken in season it is certain to cure, and may save you from that terrible disease, Consumption. It has been known and used for many years, and it is no exaggeration to say that it is the best remedy in the world for Coughs, etc.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price, 25 cents per box. For sale by C. F. Heinzeman.

$5000 for lot 60x125 feet on Hill street.

$300 each for fine building lots in the new town of San Gabriel; pure mountain water piped in front of each lot.

$850 each for lots on Waters street, commanding as fine view of the ocean as the Angeleno Heights.

Lots in all parts of the city at reasonable prices.

I desire to call particular attention to the fine building lots that I have for sale on the hill on the installment plan.

Parties desiring fine residence property will do well to examine the lots that I have this day placed on the market in the DE CELIS TRACT, only one narrow block from Main street car line, covered with orange trees in full bearing; good soil, good streets and surrounded by fine residences. This property is in the center of the city and has an electric railroad on one side and horse car on the other.

WILL EXCHANGE

Several fine pieces of property in different parts of the State for city property.

Houses rented, rents collected and all business connected with real estate promptly attended to.

Parties having large or small sums of money to loan on first mortgage will do well to give me a call. Out of the many loans recommended and made by me, I challenge any mortgagee to say that a suit has been commenced or one single installment of interest delinquent this date and unpaid.

Money to Loan.

A Brace of Accidents.

Yesterday two young men were driving through the city in a buggy and a wagon used as an advertising medium for patent medicine ran into this vehicle, upsetting it and dumping the occupants into the street. One of them, named Rance, had his right thigh bone broken about half way between the knee and the hip joint. He was conveyed to the drug store of Dr. McDonell, in the Rose Block, where Dr. Manning attended to the fractured limb.

Rance had just come out of the county hospital where he had been laid up for several months with the same bone broken in the same place. Some three months ago he was chopping wood up in the mountains, and in running a car down an improvised track it got away from him, in his efforts to stop the car he broke his leg. He was conveyed to the county hospital, where, after three month's attendance the bone was considered sufficiently knit to allow Rance to depart. He was out but a day or so when this accident occurred, refracturing the bone. He is likely to undergo a weary time of it while it reknits.

As a second chapter of accidents, a couple of ladies—their names were not learned—were driving near the corner of Hill and Sixth streets, when the horses ran away, throwing the ladies into the street. One of them had two ribs broken. They live on Figueroa street.

Turn Verein Hall.

Miss Minnie Wallace and her company will make their appearance this Sunday evening, selecting Joaquin Miller's idyllic play "Oregon." This talented actress expected to open her engagement in this city at the Grand Opera House, under the efficient management of Mr. H. C. Wyatt, but was delayed by sickness of Mr. J. J. Wallace, who is at present all right, and there will be no disappointment this time. Monday and Tuesday evenings Miss Wallace will appear in change of programme. Mr. Chas. E. Dobson, the acknowledged champion banjoist of the world, having no living equal, will appear in conjunction with each performance. This attraction is worthy the patronage of all admirers of dramatic art, and it is hoped that on this occasion Turner Hall will prove too small to contain all who may desire to witness this really meritorious entertainment.

Died from Internal Hemorrhage.

Jessie Smith, a colored girl 17 years of age, fell down dead, yesterday, at her mother's house, at 19 Wilmington street. She was removed to the Coroner's office at Messrs. Orr and Sutch's Undertaking parlors, where Justice Austin held an inquest upon the remains at 7 o'clock last night. Dr. Cohn made a post-mortem examination, which disclosed the fact that the girl died of internal hemorrhage. It was discovered that she was in an advanced state of pregnancy. There were no signs whatever upon the body of any criminal tentative. The young woman had been in the habit of working out for a living her last place being at Mr. Hutton's. The jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes.

RAYMOND ARRIVED.

A Charming Party of Visitors to Southern California.

The first Raymond and Whitcomb excursion party of the season (there being eight more to arrive) came into Los Angeles about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and proceeded at once to the new Raymond hotel at South Pasadena, where nearly all of its members will remain for the winter. They number 92 in all, and came through in a special train of six Pullman coaches on special schedule time direct from the Fitchburg depot in Boston, except that they spent Saturday and Sunday last in Chicago, five hours at the Phoenix hotel at Las Vegas springs, and half a day at Santa Fé. Major Truman, who accompanied the party as a member, and who has made eighteen trips across the continent, and whom we saw for a moment at the depot, declared that the excursion was a revelation to him, and one of the most charming and satisfactory of his life. The people, he says, aggregated as an agreeable and intelligent crowd, and the whole excursion was perfect in every part. Among the more prominent members are the following:

Mr. J. G. Allen, of New Canaan, Conn., a retired merchant, formerly a dealer in foreign fruits in New York City.

Mr. A. B. Almon, of Newport, R. I., a retired member of the Massachusetts bar, accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Mr. Edwin L. Barnes, of Boston, graduate of Chauncy Hall School.

Mr. J. Percy Birnitz, of Hanover, Pa., secretary to President A. W. Eichelberger, of the Baltimore & Harrisburg R'y, accompanied by his wife, mother and sister.

Dr. Eliza J. Beach, of Waverly, N. Y., a practicing physician.

Dr. G. G. Bishop, of Norwich, Conn., a retired dentist.

Mr. Francis Brown, a well-known wool buyer for the Middlesex Mills, of Lowell, Mass.

Dr. W. M. Chamberlain, practicing physician, of New York City, accompanied by two daughters.

Mr. C. M. Clark, a leading merchant of Sandwich, Mass.

Mr. Charles Danforth Cobb, a retired merchant of Boston.

Mr. John H. Coes, of Worcester, Mass., of the firm of A. G. Coes & Co.

Mr. H. W. Cushing, a druggist, of Skowhegan, Me., accompanied by his wife.

Rev. L. H. Fravy, of Weymouth, Mass., a Congregationalist clergyman, accompanied by his wife and daughter. They are to become permanent residents of Southern California.

Dr. Adele A. Gleason, of Elmira, N. Y., an acting physician of the Hillside Home Sanitarium.

Mr. E. C. Hersey, of Portland, Me., a retired merchant.

Rev. Hiram Houston, a Congregationalist clergyman of Wells, Me.

Mr. C. H. Hovey, of Boston, a member of the American Pomological Society, Massachusetts Horticultural Society, and was one of the judges of pomological and horticultural exhibits at the late exposition in New Orleans. He is the son of the famous florist, Mr. Charles M. Hovey, of Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. Henry C. Howard, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., President of the Bank of Niagara, accompanied by his family.

Otis E. Hunt, M. D., of Newton, Mass., Councilor of the Massachusetts Medical Society and active member of the Medical Board of the Newton Cottage Hospital, accompanied by his wife. This is their second visit to California with a Raymond & Whitcomb party.

Mr. H. H. Hutchins, of Somerville, Mass., of the firm of Rice & Hutchins, dealers in boots and shoes in Boston. He is accompanied by Mrs. Hutchins. They spent the winter of 1884-5 in California under the auspices of Raymond & Whitcomb.

Mr. Geo. B. Milton, of Weston, Mass., a retired merchant.

Mr. W. H. Osgood, of Salem, Mass., who is well known in California, having spent many years in the State during its early days.

Mrs. Emmons Raymond, wife of the projector and builder of the magnificent Raymond Hotel at Pasadena, accompanied by Miss M. J. Raymond. These ladies, who have never been in California before, have come out to behold the crowning result of the energy of the venerable gentleman whose name is already a household word in Semi Tropical California, and will reside in the cottage built for them near the hotel.

Rev. G. S. F. Savage, D. D., of Chicago, secretary of the Chicago Congregationalist Theological seminary.

Mr. Leonard Smith, of Waltham, Mass., a Boston broker, accompanied by his mother and sister.

Mr. William Stanton, a retired lawyer of Pittsburg, Pa., accompanied by his family.

Judge W. G. Sterling, of Northampton, Mass., formerly of New York City.

Mr. Alpha Thom, of Portland, Me., assistant general ticket agent of the Portland and Ogdensburg railroad, who is to be the cashier of the Raymond.

Mr. William H. Thomes, a California pioneer of 1843, a well known journalist and author, and at present the special correspondent of the Boston Journal in Southern California.

Major B. C. Truman, of the Southern Pacific Company, who has been in the East for nearly ten months in the interest of this company.

Mr. S. H. Wardwell, of Swampscott, Mass., formerly proprietor of the Lincoln House at Swampscott beach, accompanied by his daughter, and Mr. S. H. Wardwell, Jr., of the firm of Wardwell Brothers, the present proprietors of the above mentioned hotel.

Mrs. Alonzo S. Weed, wife of the publisher of Zions' Herald, of Boston.

Dr. F. B. Whittier, a leading homeopathic physician of Fitchburg, Mass.

Dr. F. Woodruff, a retired merchant of Berlin, Conn.

Among others there were a number of ladies unaccompanied by gentlemen, who were profuse in their praise of the management of their trip, and who declared that no detail which might impart perfection of transportation and means of entertainment were unemployed. Mr. Walter Raymond, one of the firm, came on in charge of the party, assisted by Messrs. C. C. Harding and C. H. Wilson, all of whom were spoken of in the highest terms by those excursionists with whom we briefly conversed.

As a purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla acts directly and promptly. A single bottle will prove its merits. Many thousands of people are yearly saved from dangerous fevers by the exercise of a little timely care in properly cleansing the system by the use of this remedy.

A RASH DEED.

A Discouraged Telegraph Operator Blows Out His Brains.

Edward Mugford, a telegraph operator, committed suicide yesterday morning at 8:15 at his residence, West Seventh street, by shooting himself back of the ear with a small 32 pistol called a "Terror," whilst lying in bed. He died almost immediately afterwards. The facts as learned very soon after the occurrence, are that Mrs. Mugford got up from the bed at about 8 o'clock and proceeded to the kitchen to prepare breakfast. Whilst so engaged she heard a pistol shot in the bedroom, and running thither found that her husband had sent a bullet crashing into his brain and was gasping his last. Mr. Mugford, a little over two months ago, came from a ranch in the vicinity of Florence, where he had been residing for his health with his wife and little five-year-old daughter, and secured employment in the Western Union Company as an operator. Commodore Haynes says that so far as he knows, Mr. Mugford was a steady and sober employé. The deceased, who was in poor health, seems to have labored under the idea that the employés of the Western Union were unkindly disposed toward him and that idea went so far as to induce him to fear personal violence from them. With that hallucination in his mind he applied for protection against them to the Chief of Police, about a week ago, who advised him to swear out a peace warrant. He did not follow out that advice but instead resigned two or three days ago. The day before yesterday he went to witness the hanging of Baynton and it made a deep impression upon his mind. It is intimated that Mugford's mental equilibrium was slightly overbalanced. He lived with his young wife, daughter and mother-in-law at the house where he did the rash deed, and there is no intimation that there were any domestic troubles weighing on his mind. The body of the suicide was removed to the undertaking parlors of Messrs Orr & Sutch, where Justice Austin held an inquest on it, in the absence of Coroner McFarland. After hearing the evidence, the jury returned a verdict that Edward Mugford, aged 27, a native of the United States, shot himself in the head whilst temporarily mentally deranged.

Mr. Mugford came here from Sedalia, Mo., where his relations still reside.

Avoid the harsh, irritating, griping compounds so often sold as purging medicines, and correct the irregularities of the bowels by the use of Ayers Cathartic Pills, which are mild and gentle, yet thorough and searching, in their action.

Buy Now and Get the Advance

In "South Side" lots, which is sure to come. Lots within two minutes' walk, and no richer, and without houses, are selling for $1000. "South Side," $550, on easy payments, and a fine house for every seven lots; 86 lots, 12 fine houses.

The Pico Street Railway is Booming.

The copper wire is here (eleven tons), the poles are about all set on West Pico, the engine and boilers will be here from San Francisco by middle of next week, and it is confidently expected to have the cars running in first week of December. Think of the effect on property on this popular railway. The South Side lots of the Electric Railway Homestead Association now selling for $550 will then readily bring $800 to $1000. Buy now before the advance; it is sure to come.

San Francisco in Los Angeles.

The first choice in the Williamson tract distribution fell to Mr. John E. Hunsicker of the Tehama street stables, San Francisco. The house and lot is fully worth $2,000. The Southern California Land Co. (Baker Block) has San Francisco subscribers to all its homesteads.

Lots Right Beside

The "South Side" Tract are selling for $1000 Now is the time to buy "South Side" lots, before the advance, at $550. The Electric Railway Homestead Association only offe bargains.

The Williamson Tract.

Improvements steadily progress on this tract. The contracts are all given out for sidewalks, electric lights, tree planting &c. The four beautiful houses will be finished this week. The Southern California Land Company (Baker Block) has no rival.

Look Out for the Advance.

Be wise in time, buy the South Side lots of the Electric Railway Homestead Association, while you can get them for $550. Lots nearly joining are now held for $1000; an advance of South side lots is certain. Room 8 Schumacher block.

Can't Compete.

No auction sales of property from here to the San Fernando mountains attract the public. The Howes lots at $190 hold the attention of every one.

The Electric Railway Homestead Association

Sold the advance on Pico Heights lots would be $60, and some have been sold at $150 advance. "South Side" lots will sell for $1000 before Spring.

The People Judge.

The last week of the Howes tract! The people witnessed yesterday long lines of large vans of the Oregon Lumber Company filled with brick and lumber for the Howes tract buildings now being erected.

If You Want to Double Your Money

In six weeks, buy lots in the South Side Tract Electric Railway Homestead Association, selling now for $550 on easy terms; one house for seven lots.

To-Day! To-Day!

Carriages at 9:30, 11, 2 and 3 o'clock to the Howes tract from 244 N. Main, Baker block.

The Brilliant and Unequaled

Of the Pico Heights tract sale is now being supplemented by that of the "South side." The Electric Railway Homestead Association are reliable and responsible, and the public know it. South Side lots are sure to advance.

You Will Be Disappointed.

More than five hundred persons intend to take lots in the Howes, being attracted by the splendid locality and wonderfully low price of this charming property. As hardly one hundred lots remain many will be disappointed as usual.

The Electric Railway Homestead Association

Will give full values in the houses they build. South Side lots will have twelve houses worth $800 each, and there are only 86 lots; no false values.

The Last Week.

This will, without doubt, be the last week for the sale of the Howes Tract.

Special Notice for To-day.

The best Real Estate investment "on the books" is offered at James P. McCarthy's Real Estate office, at 23 W. First street. A few parties who mean business, and can give some attention to details in cutting up and selling off a tract of over 100 acres close in are solicited to examine these fine bargains, which require but moderate investment to insure speedy returns at over 100 per cent. profit. No exaggeration, but actual facts, shown by figures. Call Monday.

The Southern California Land Company Again to the Fore.

The Howes Tract on Jefferson street, including the handsome home residence and charming grounds of F. C. Howes, Esq., Cashier of the Los Angeles National Bank, to be subdivided—375 large lots (one-fifth of an acre each) with nine beautiful villa residences, including the large cottage of ten rooms of Mr. Howes; graded streets, etc., to be sold on the Homestead plan at $190 per lot, in payments of $10 monthly without interest; with first payment of $30.

The great success of the Southern California Land Company, (Baker Block), with the CHILDS TRACT, URMSTON TRACT, CITY CENTER TRACT, WILLIAMSON TRACT, ELEVENTH STREET BLOCK and COLUMBIA COLONY has been owing to the wonderfully low rates at which this popular company has placed first-class, well located property before the public.

It is refreshing to note in the midst of the boom in real estate, that one reliable firm not only gives to the people homestead lots at about one-third the price charged by others, but also performs all its promises to the letter in the building of houses, opening out of streets, putting up electric lights and extending the improvements of our city to its farthest legitimate bounds.

The maps of the Howes Tract are now ready and all will be bustle and activity on this beautiful property; surveyors will be laying off the streets and avenues, builders will be placing houses and pushing forward at once all the improvements promised, and the Tract, now almost all covered with vines, orange trees and splendid foliage, will put on a metropolitan look and keep up with its beautiful surroundings of costly buildings and cottage residences.

The Howes Tract fronts on Jefferson street, west of Vermont avenue. The location is a very popular one, in the direct line of the city's rapid growth, and will soon be reached by lines of street railroad and the Motor Road on the west.

A great demand has sprung up and names are coming in rapidly. The large salesroom of the SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA LAND COMPANY, 244 North Main street (Baker Block), is filled every evening with subscribers until a late hour.

$190 per lot is not one-third the price of outlying lots in Pasadena or the rocky cañons around it, and not one-fourth the rate of the farthest subdivisions of unmarketable tracts in East Los Angeles.

DOES IT PAY

The Public to Read the Advertisements of the

PEOPLE'S STORE?

In business, as in other matters, chances occur daily of obtaining advantages that are meritorious. Men fail in business seek to realize all they can prior to their downfall—sell their goods for cash at any price they can get. Others die, the business goes into liquidation. Still others are thrust out of business for fraud, deceit or misrepresentation; their stocks taken from them and given to some responsible merchant, etc., etc. In a number of ways goods come into the hands of merchants who have the cash to bid for them. How is the merchant who takes advantage of his opportunities to let his customers know the splendid values fortune has given him to give his patrons? Through his advertisement in the newspaper. And that, though the best of all known methods, is not entirely satisfactory. A limited number of people, who have learned the worth of reading legitimate advertisements, come and take advantage of its offers; the rest learn of it a day, a week, or a month later, when they see the new garment being worn. "Why! isn't that elegant! Where did you get that?" "At the People's Store, of course! They advertised them last Friday." "Just think! Isn't that cheap? Why I didn't see it!"

Of course not. You don't read the papers and don't know the amount of money you lose a year by not buying when goods are advertised cheap.

Our Clothing Department Claims Your Attention To-day.

We sell you a good, serviceable Boys' School Suit for $2.25.

A very nice suit for $3.95. Now, where in town can you buy any kind of a boys' suit for that money. Clothing stores would all go to ruin on profits like ours.

At $5.95 we sell you a Corded Pique Suit, as fine as any boy wants to put on his back. These goods were made for Coleman Bros., of Montgomery street, San Francisco, who had the finest trade on the Coast, and sold these goods from $10 to $15.

We have suits at intermediate prices—$3.25, $3.75, $4.25 and $4.50.

Boys' Knee Pants, serviceable and plenty good enough for "little shavers" to knock around in, 65c., 75c., 98c., $1.25.

Youths' Suits, up to 18 years, $4.50, $5.50, $7.50, $8.50. Our goods are the equal of any—the only difference is we buy them and sell them from two to five dollars a suit cheaper than regular clothing stores.

Annexed to the Clothing Department is our Shawl and Jersey Department. Our values in both are simply splendid. We have for the first time bought these goods from the mill direct, and it is a saving of forty per cent. on former prices. Talnk of it!

Extra large shawls, large per cent. wool, $1. Silk-mixed shawls, nice goods, $2.25. Oriental silk-mixed shawls $3.50—sold previously at $6.

Full size, extra heavy Blanket Shawl $2.75.

Shoulder Shawls 15c. and upwards.

Black, all wool, pull-back Jerseys $1.

Black, all wool Jerseys, white trimming, $1.

Tailor-back, all wool black Jerseys, wide braid trimming, $2.

Fine imported Cashmere Jerseys $2.50.

After you look at these goods, you will conclude that it does pay to read the advertisements of

ABOUT BELLS.

The Variety of Uses to Which They Are Put.

PRACTICAL AND PROSAIC VIEWS

Importance of the Part in Life Played by Hammer and Clapper.

Did you ever think what uses bells have, how many and how varied? This one tells the coming of a scissors-grinder, and that one tells the death of a statesman; this calls the farmer to dinner, and that calls the Christian to church; this sends the office-boy to the desk, and that sends the engines to a fire. There are bells little and bells big; bells that work with ropes; bells struck by a clapper and bells pounded by a hammer; bells swung and bells jerked; vibrating bells, dumb-bells and diving-bells. There are famous bells, often like famous men, in that they are more or less cracked; for instance, the old Independence bell at Philadelphia, and the biggest of them all, the one thing that serves to fix Moscow in a boy's mind. Then there are poetic bells—that is to say bells immortalized by poets. Edgar Allan Poe knew a large assortment of that kind. Tom Moore wasn't acquainted with so many, but those he was intimate with were far sweeter and more lovable. Of course you remember what he sang about them—

Those evening bells! Those evening bells!
How many a tale their music tells,
Of youth and home, and that sweet time
When last I heard their soothing chime!

Another poet, Byron, eulogized a bell of a far different sort, yet to ordinary mortals more grateful—

That all softening, overpowering knell,
The tocsin of the soul—the dinner bell.

Some people might allege that Byron had made a mistake and confounded the soul with the stomach, but he probably had in mind the ancients, who imagined that the home of the soul was the liver. Certainly he was quite right in using the adjective "overpowering," for there is nothing like the call to dinner for conquering all occupations. Did you never see a bricklayer drop his uplifted trowel when the clock struck 12? Did you never see a farmer drop his scythe when the welcome sound came over the fields from the kitchen door?

Far less grateful is another household bell, that used for waking. It is indeed strange what a different emotion the sound of a bell excites at 6 A. M., from that felt at 12 M. Bells have a language, and it is what they tell that affects men. For instance, the church bell at quarter-past 10 on a Sunday morning talks in a lively, cheerful tone, telling you to "Hurry up! Hurry up! Time to start! Time to start!" Fifteen minutes later that same bell, in slow measured tones, is telling you to "Walk slow! Walk slow! Solemn day! Solemn day!" and so is putting you in the right frame of mind to enter the sacred portals. That same night fire breaks out and now the same bell is all excitement, jerking out the dire news in wildest tones.

Bells are very, very old. Aaron, the priest of the Jews, wore tiny ones on the hem of his robe, hanging between embroidered pomegranates; their tinkling was to tell of the priest's approach. King David used to make music with bells, if a picture of him so engaged is trustworthy. Bells used to tell the Romans when it was time to bathe, and the early Christians when it was time to pray. The latter use still remains in the Roman Catholic custom of ringing the Angelus at morning, noon and night.

In the middle ages bells came to be used to give alarms telling the people of danger, whether from fire, flood or some human enemy. So useful were they found for this purpose that in the middle ages every city and town came to have its bell and its tower, where watchers could stay and be ever ready to sound an alarm. In Italy the bell-tower was called the campanile, and as much care was taken to have a beautiful campanile as to have a beautiful church, so now the lover of fine architecture finds the Italian campanile one of the most interesting subjects for study. At first church bells were put in such towers, separate from the church; the belfry was a late device. Then came the idea of using belfry bells for signals and alarms, whence our modern idea of the church bell fire alarm. Never bell rang out more terrible signal than given from the steeple of St. Germain-l'Auxerrois, in Paris, on that awful Sunday morning, the 24th of August, 1572, St. Bartholomew's Day. It was between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning that the ominous clang broke through the stillness of the night, and immediately the bells of a hundred churches made reply. It was the signal for a massacre that only ended when 40,000 Huguenots had perished.

Bells were very early known in the British Isles, unless Shakespeare errs in making the sound of a bell the signal to Macbeth for his awful crime. You remember his words after that soliloquy in which he wonders if it is a dagger he sees before him:

I go, and it is done; the bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncan, for it is a knell
That summons thee to heaven or to hell.

Whether or no Macbeth ever heard a bell in his barbaric Scotland, certain it is that it England the bell was already in common use. In London the bell of St. Paul's was already hung, and as far back as Henry the First's time it was used to call the burgesses to "town-mote," or town-meeting. In all the English towns it came to be used for this purpose, as well as to call people to church at night. Rang out the curfew bell, telling that it was time for honest folk to be abed—a custom handed down even to our own days and yet lingering in the 9 o'clock bell of our mill cities. In Edward the First's time it was made penal to go out of doors at night after the hour of curfew.

The combination of bells in chimes was an invention of the early middle ages that seems to have gone out of favor in recent times. We, in America, have very few chimes of any merit, and yet there is no music that can stir so many hearts at once, can as fitly call people to church, mark the death of the old year and the birth of the new, and celebrate all occasions of religious ceremony. The power of the chime has been gloriously immortalized in Tennyson's "In Memoriam," in those grand stanzas beginning:

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky.

From the chime Shakespeare took one of his most striking similies. He puts it in wretched Ophelia's mouth after Hamlet has convinced her of his madness by telling her to get her to a nunnery. She laments that now she sees:

That noble and most sovereign reason,
Like sweet bells jangled out of tune and harsh.

To mark time has long been one of the most important uses of bells. Indeed, up to the fourteenth century the word clock was applied only to the bell upon which was rung the hour determined by the horologe, (sun-dial, sand-glass or water-clock). Nowadays the town clock usually has its bell, and, as does the house clock, to strike the hours. In few cities that have an electric fire alarm is not the noon signal struck, or a signal given at some other time to enable the people to set their watches and clocks, as in Waltham, where the blow is struck on the bells at 6:50. Many large bells are now used exclusively for fire alarms. The heaviest bell in the United States is the alarm bell on the City Hall in New York; it was cast in Boston and weighs about 22,000 pounds. The heaviest fire-alarm bell owned by the city of Boston is on Faneuil Hall and weighs 5,816 pounds; the next heaviest is on the George-street schoolhouse in Roxbury, and weighs 4,100 pounds; the Old South bell weighs only 100 pounds. The Boston telegraphic fire alarm has 48 striking machines, each of which works on a bell, 100 gongs, 39 box gongs, 32 tappers, 4 vibrators and 354 signal boxes, in each of which is a tiny bell. You can judge from this how large a part bells play in protecting the property of this city.

Nowadays the chief uses of big bells, besides for churches and fire departments are in schools, academies, colleges, factories and mills. Every college has its bell, and so has almost every academy. The use of the big school bells diminishes the larger the city. In the mill towns and cities, the stranger is apt to think at noon or night, that some big fire has broken out, and it takes days to get accustomed to the clamor.

A few large bells are used on light-houses, such as the beautiful voiced bell on Minot's Ledge light. When the fog comes in, by a pneumatic arrangement the bells are set ringing regularly, and many is the craft it has warned of danger. Smaller bells, but none the less useful, are those on the bell-buoys, which are kept ringing by the motion of the waves. This suggests the use of bells to record time on shipboard, after a system that always puzzles the landlubber.

The use of hand bells in the streets to attract attention has the sanction of venerable custom, but not of city governments unless formally given. The city ordinances of Boston, for instance prohibit the ringing of bells in the streets unless the ringer gets a license. With us such ringing is confined to scissors-grinders and ice cream men. Towncriers, where they still perform their almost obsolete duties, as in Nantucket, for instance, use bells to get attention of the people to what they have to cry.

Sleigh-bells, however, are obligatory, the State statutes providing that every sleigh or sled must have at least three bells, and the city ordinances extending this rule to carriages and vehicles of every description when there is snow on the ground. Other bells heard in the street are those on the horse-cars, both those on the harness and those on the cars. Of less noise, but of more financial interest, are the bells in the punches and in the fare records with the clock faces.

The bell has come to be an important factor in business life. Just stop to think how many times you hear it in a day! There is the elevator bell, the telephone bell, the bell that is rung by the opening of the door, the call bell that goes with the speaking tube, the electric bell that communicates with different rooms and different floors. This last class of bells has come to its perfection in the hotel, and rare is the big hotel now that has not discarded the old-fashioned bell-pull.

In the home the bell finds its greatest use to call mistress or servant to the door. The chief peculiarities of bells thus used are that they are always getting out of order if wires are used, and are not easily heard if wires are not used. The electric bells are coming into greater use, and where two or three are put in different parts of the house they give great satisfaction. Electric bells are also used to connect chambers and kitchen, house and stable. Then there are the table bells and the dinner bells.

Travelers meet bells at every turn. Each locomotive has one for warning, and one in the cab. Steamboats have them in the engine-room connected with bridge or pilot-house. They give electric signals at railway stations. They announce the departure of steamboats. They tell when the railway gates are going up or down. They tell when trains are to start.

On the farm you hear cowbells, and to the farm-bred city man, what is more melodious? In the town you hear the bells of the baker's cart. On the road you hear the bicycle bell.

In the school-yard are the recess bells. In the school-rooms are the teachers' bells.

The use of bells for adornment is now in civilized countries a thing of the past, yet once such must have been known of, or we never should have had the couplet:

With rings on her fingers and bells on her toes
She's sure to have music wherever she goes.
—Boston Globe.

Figs of Smyrna.

To those who are fond of dried figs it should be interesting to follow the fruit as it is gradually carried from the tree to the table. It may not be generally known that every fig has a worm. In most groves of Smyrna there are a few trees whose fruit is worthless as an article of consumption, yet is invaluable to the proper growth and development of the most delicious figs from other trees. In the fruit of these few are generated certain insects, not unlike gnats in appearance, which, at the season designated by nature, swarm over the whole orchard, one entering the base of every fig. The insect now becomes a worm, whose province is to round and fatten the fruit. Where orchards do not possess these necessary companions, a quantity of their fruit is purchased and strung on chord-like wreaths; the chaplets are then flung at intervals into the trees, when the insects issue forth to perform their office.

Figs are not cured; they remain on the trees until they are blown off by the wind. They are then considered ripe, and are at once packed in camel's-hair bags containing from two hundred to three hundred pounds, and dispatched by camels or railway to the bazars. Passing from the hands of the producer through those of the general dealer and the broker, they arrive at the packing-house to be dumped into an immense room. Here is a scene at once picturesque and animated. Imagine a long corridor or court, protected from the sun by awnings, with 300 people sitting, some cross-legged, some on stools, busily at work. Fancy fifty or sixty more flitting in and out from room to room, from group to group, some with shallow baskets of fruit, some with boxes empty, others with boxes filled. Note the age and appearance and dress of these people; there are Turks, Greeks, Italians, Armenians, and others difficult to class; there are old women of seventy, young girls of seven, and men and boys of all ages; there are faces bright, intellectual and energetic, and faces dull, stupid and listless; there are figures neatly and tastefully clad, and figures slovenly and awry; and all these are presented in a wonderful variety of color and pose which are ever-changing, as groups form and disperse in the noiseless occupation of packing figs. The arrangement of labor is such that there is never any confusion. Beginning with the women and children who at one end of the court assort the fruit in its various grades, the work goes steadily on until, from the other, the filled boxes are sent into a separate apartment to be made ready for shipment.—[Harper's Bazar.

LAKE COMO.

Visit to Claude Melnotte's Loves' Paradise.

ROYAL VILLAS LINE ITS SHORES

The Homes of Some Celebrities—The Town of Como—An Ancient Love Story.

LAKE COMO (Italy), Oct. 1.—It would be hard to find, I fancy, more delightful resorts the year round than those so well known on the three principal Italian lakes, Como, Lugano and Maggiore. Lake Como, from its sheltered position among the mountains, is delightful in winter, and the hotels are well filled even during the cold months. Lake Maggiore is much larger, and the scenery in many parts much more beautiful than that around Como, but the English prefer the latter, and leave both Lugano and Maggiore more or less to Italian pleasure-seekers, or to the hordes of travelers of all nationalities who haunt the north of Italy at certain seasons.

More than two-thirds of the beautiful villas on Lake Como are owned by English people, who come down through Switzerland and France between the 1st and 15th of August and remain until the end of October usually. The hotels are filling rapidly, but as there are to be no regattas next month, fewer French and German visitors will be here than usual. July ran through a most extraordinary thirty-one days, and disappeared in a cold wind, bearing plenty of snow on the surrounding mountain tops. The Italians, who are already in their summer homes, are very quiet, "saving up," so the young ladies say, for the gaities of the early autumn. The most magnificent, though by no means the most charming villa on the lake, is the property of the Viscountess Mudroda, and was formerly the summer house of the Countess Raimondia, the daughter of Garibaldi. It is a large white marble building, with three great doors in front, over which hang heavy canvas curtains at present, and before which the family congregate about 5 o'clock in the afternoon, to take some light refreshments and chat until dinner time. The grounds are extremely beautiful, being wild and woody in parts, with quaint grottos and curious fountains here and there, and the lawns dotted with immense magnolia and lemon trees. A great gilt crown surmounts the center pinacle, and on the iron gate is written the word "l'Orman," the name of the place. The lodges, one at each end of the grounds, are also of white marble. The viscountess entertains a great deal, giving many dinners, lawn parties, fancy balls, etc. Just above, on the mountain side, is the lovely country palace of Mons. and Mme. Capada, who were both famous singers, here in Italy, some ten years ago.

Further on up the lake are the old villas of Taglioni and Vasta, where these celebreties once lived. A little further on is a beautiful island, formerly fortified, which played an important part in the military annals of the middle ages. Charming ruins and a few modern houses cover a portion of it now, but the old guide still shows you shadowy-looking caves that the spirit of the thousand witches burned in Como in 1524 are said to haunt on inually, and on the highest promontory of the little isle stands a rickety bell-tower among the oxalia and camelia bushes, and there, every May Day, goes a young peasant lad of the vicinity to ring the bell and call all the young men and maidens within hearing together, that from among them he may choose the maid he loves best to be his bride. The custom is very old and very regularly observed in the lake districts, and no spot could be more fitting assuredly than that on the beautiful isle of Camacino. At the upper end of the lake are the two beautiful resorts of Bellagio and Caddenabia. Charming balconies from the hotels, restaurants and villas hang over the water's edge, and the view in every direction is enchanting. At Bellagia the tourist may purchase the silk blankets and scarfs of rich Roman colors, or the lace that the little girls make, sitting in front of the houses in the narrow streets; also the tiny wooden shoes of the Italian peasant girls. At Cadenabbia is the famous Villa Cotta the property of the Duchess of Saxemainaggen. The terraced gardens are beautiful beyond description, and the tiny landing-place (steps and breakwater all of white marble) is one of the prettiest on the lake. In the great hall of the house is Thorwaldsen's freize, representing Alexander's triumph. Several works of Canova are also there. First, and always first for beauty and grace among the great works of the sculptors, is his "Cupid and Psyche." The combined power and airy lightness of design seem almost to endow the marble with life, and one half expects to see the two exquisite figures move and fly away, or step from their cold, black pedestal into the light and sunshine to rest with the butterflies among the flowers. There are but two or three places of any historic interest on Lake Como, and of these the town of Como itself is the chief.

On the top of a hill which forms the background of the town, stands a most picturesque ivy-covered old tower. Not a window, crack or crevice breaks the stretch of stone from top to bottom, and its curious construction almost tells its cruel history.

Some time in the fifteenth century a Duke of Como loved a beautiful Veronese lady, who, however preferred a young lord of her native city. The Duke, infuriated at the rejection of his suit, vowed vengeance upon the luckless lover, and added the tower mentioned above to his splendid castle. Then he waited, like all evil spirits in legends, until just before the marriage of the happy pair, when he took the young man prisoner one night, and bearing him away to his own domain, lowered him with ropes into the dark round tower. There he left him, and the third night after, so the story goes, the peasants in the neighborhood saw a white dove fly from the tower and bear straight to heaven a human heart; and to this day the old castle Baradella (such it is called) is the favorite haunt of doves, and no good peasant ever kills one without breathing an Ave Maria or devoutly crossing himself. At the northern end of the lake is a ruined castle of the thirteenth century, a few yards from which there is a rocky pass bearing the peculiar appellation "Orarge Juice." In 1799, when the Russians were invading the territory, several hundred pushed up to this castle of Rezzonico and were surprised and overpowered by the Italians, who flung them to the last one down the dreadful gorge. Not a Russian escaped alive. Many of the English on Lake Como have pretty yachts and they are continually getting up small races. Last fall however, a good sized yacht capsized and the captain and a little girl were drowned, which made the residents on the lake be much more careful than before.—[Cor. Omaha Bee.

CONFEDERATE MONEY.

Millions of Dollars Bought of a Savannah Firm.

A few months ago the firm of Dixon & Murphy advertised in the News for Confederate money and offered 2 or 3 cents apiece for each bill. The appearance of the advertisement gave many the idea that some scheme was on foot to convert the old notes into good, solid Bland dollars. There were not a few, though, who, having a considerable sum of the old currency on hand, were glad to sell even at the enormous discount of 98 per cent off.

So ever since the notice first appeared the enterprising firm has been receiving all sorts of inquiries. They have bought in amounts ranging from $5 to $5000. All that the firm wanted with the bills was to use them for advertising their coal business by distributing "the promises to pay" all over the country. The largest denomination received was the five hundred dollar bills, and the smallest five-dollar bills. At first the notes came in rapidly, but of late there have not been not many offering. The market seems to be pretty well bought up Bills were picked up at every point from Virginia to Texas. Some were tattered and showed wear, and some were as bright and crisp as new. One package of $1500 looked as if the notes were just from the press.

Altogether the firm has purchased 20,000 bills, which once represented millions of Confederate dollars. On the back of each bill the firm has had printed an eight-stanza poem beginning.

The distribution of the bills bearing the poem excited considerable interest as to who was the author of the pretty verses. Many attributed them to Father Ryan, and almost all of the South's sweet singers of two decades ago were given credit for the quaint lines by their several admirers. Before going to England in June last Denis Murphy presented President Cleveland at one of his receptions with a $500 interest-bearing note, which had the verses on its back. The President smiled at the promise to pay two cents per day interest, and the incident and poem were published in some of the Washington papers. There happened to be in Washington about that time one S. A. Jonas, who is editor of the Aberdeen (Miss.) Examiner. The poem was passing around as an anonymous production, when Mr. Jonas recognized it as an effort of his own, written at Richmond in May, 1865, at the request of some old friends and veterans. Although the verses are peculiarly appropriate and beautiful, they perhaps never before had anything like the circulation they have had within the last year. They had laid unnoticed so long that the public had forgotten the writer. During the last twelvemonth they have been scattered all over the country. Mr. Murphy took 1500 bills to England, and when he returned had given them all away. In Cardiff, Wales, where an American is something of a curiosity, Mr. Murphy gave a number of bills to the miners and left them under the impression that he was a benevolent Cræsus or Count of Monte Cristo, for the miners considered the bills genuine currency worth par.

A few days before the first advertisement was published a Savannah gentleman burned a barrelful of old Confederate notes, the whole representing over $1,000,000. This has probably been the fate of many a barrel of the pledges that were once issued so freely that $1200 of them were required to buy a pair of boots, and coarse boots at that.

ENGLAND.

Democracy Finding Its Way Into the Family and Kitchen.

In America the dwellings of the people look like structures, and are indicative only of present prosperity; here they look like growths and are suggestive of a history. * * * The squire has too often been a mere game-preserver and fox-hunter. I remember one who in his decrepitude had no food for his soul but hearing the hounds called over by the huntsman at his bedside, and another, who, being paralyzed in his old ago, preserved rabbits, which must have eaten up no small portion of the crops, and went out shooting them in a cart, seated on a music stool, which enabled him just to turn enough to get his shot. Of late, too, absenteeism has increased. It has been almost as common in some parts of England as in Ireland. The squire spends a great part of his life in London or abroad, and the parish lacks its head. On my saying to a bishop some time ago that a friend of mine who had taken a living in his diocese was unlucky and having no resident gentleman in the parish, the bishop replied that there was scarcely such a thing as a resident gentleman in his diocese. Life seems to be growing softer in England and more refined. There is an increased love of art, of flowers and of music. I was struck at Oxford with the flowers in the windows of students and the sounds of music from their rooms. Lawn tennis, at which women play, is sapping, and it will in the end kill cricket, unless it has in it, like croquet, the seeds of its own death.

A female writer told me the other day that life was poorly spent in bearing babies, preparing to bear babies and suckling babies. If the revolt against maternity spreads in England it must produce, besides the decay of the race, sinister consequences of other kinds. Democracy is finding its way into the family and the relations between the sexes. Paternal authority has been visibly diminished. In America democracy has so thoroughly taken possession of the kitchen that were it not for the constant inflow of domestics from the less democratic countries domestic service must cease to exist. Almost any employment is preferred to calling anybody mistress. The next two or three generations are likely to see a great change in the mode of living.—[Goldwin Smith in Macmillan's.

SOME PARISIAN STYLES.

Noteworthy Changes in Fabric and in Cut of Cloth.

Stripes will be much worn in all the woolen stuffs, but there will be no spots, for which release I think many will be as grateful as I am. Tartans are being much worn in Paris at present, made in velvet, and very handsome they look. In bodices the old pointed shape is the newest mode; nothing resembling a round bodice is to be worn. In sleeves there is a revolution of so strange a character that I almost hate to go into details, for, put on paper, they read almost like a revival of the dry bones of æstheticism. However, nothing designed by a Parisian can look æsthetic in the "greenery-yallery" sense, so I will be courageous and go on. Sleeves are worn full in Paris now; they are either plaited from shoulder to elbow and at the elbow a pouf or fulled from the elbow to the wrist. On the shoulders also the sleeves are fulled once more and no longer may be put in plain. This is very nice for the Sarah Bernhardt style of figure and for all those who have thin arms, but for the others—?

Short dresses are still to be worn for all small dinners and evening parties, but the Parisians will appear in long dresses and trains at official dinners and large soirees. A favorite color, which is expected to become still more popular is the exquisite tint known as che vieux rose. The mixture of colors will be chiefly worn this winter are moss-green and black-and-tan and black.—Flower O'-May's Gossip.

VISIT TO ST. BERNARD.

Nature's Loveliest Charms as Seen in Switzerland.

A NIGHT IN A FAMOUS CONVENT.

Graphic Description of the Scenery as Observed From the Top of the Mountain.

MILAN, Sept. 26.—Originally I intended to write you this letter from the Convent of the Great St. Bernard instead of from a trattoria in Milan, but I had very little time at my disposal during my stay among the clouds, and I was, moreover, too much fatigued by the up-hill trips to put pen to paper. Some three weeks ago I found myself with a few Italian friends, after a rather long, circuitous tour, snugly housed in a quaint little inn at Aosta, where, after due consideration, we decided on paying a visit the next day to the world-renowned monastery of the Augustinian monks. I was heart and soul in favor of the excursion from the very start, for it has been for years one of my fondest aspirations to step up those rocky defiles of which I read so much in song and story; to gaze on that remarkable pile of buildings where for centuries human charity and benevolence had reached their apotheosis; to feast my eyes on those mountain passes over which Napoleon's conquering legions sped on their march toward the fertile plains of Lombardy; to spend some hours treading those romantic haunts that used to start up so vividly before my boyish fancy in the dim past as I wasted the midnight oil over the graphic pages of the Headsman of Berne. With the gray dawn of an August morning we commenced our journey, provided with a guide and a pair of mules; and, after a several hours' trip through jagged rocks and over heather byways we reached the village of Etroubles, where the mountains to the right, dotted with picturesque villas and green with the overhanging foliage of miniature groves, formed a gentle incline along which we could see the granite steps of several winding staircases. Further up in front of us lay the lovely hamlet of St. Oyen, girdled with Alpine larch and cedar trees, and arrayed in a soft arcadian beauty that formed a striking contrast with the barren cliffs and glaciers far away overhead. St. Oyen, by the by, holds an honored place in the chronicles of old. It was, we are told, the first community that broke out in open rebellion against the infamous custom of the Middle Ages—the abominable jus primoe noctis by virtue of which feudal lords had the privilege of making their own of serfs' wives on the wedding night. The burghers of St. Oyen rose in mass one fine morning and with flashing cimeters surrounded the residence of their master, whom they took prisoner, and immediately afterward escorted to the church, where they compelled him to swear before the Blessed Sacrament that he would "henceforth and forever" renounce all right to the particular privilege in question. The chevalier (oh, ye heavens, what a misnomer!) seemed to swallow the bitter pill with the utmost equanimity, and after the solemn pledge to behave himself properly for the future, he was set at liberty. Scarcely, however, had he been well out of the peasants' hands when he fled in secret from the village and wended his way downward to Aosta, the capital of the then principality, and invoked the assistance of the prince to put down the stubborn people and give him back those subtle sensual pleasures of which they had so shamefully deprived him. The Prince of Aosta sided with his vassal, but the inhabitants, rather than allow themselves to be any longer smirched in their conjugal honor, "folded their tents like the Arabs and silently stole away" across the Great St. Bernard into Switzerland, where they remained for years, pining like the exiles in Evangeline for a glimpse of the land of their early love till better times returned, when the survivors were permitted once more to rest in peace away among their native hills.

St. Oyen is to-day the property, or mostly so, of the Augustinian brothers. Here the young dogs of the hospital, unable to bear the piercing cold of the upper regions, are well cared for in snugly furnished kennels during the winter. A half hour's steady march, in the course of which we take our turn on the mules, brings us from St. Oyen to St. Remy, while the guide, in the usual sing-song style of the confraternity, tells us how astoundingly grateful we should be to him for having provided us with such historic animals. "Historic!" I cried in in amazement, "what do you mean?" "I mean, signor," he cried, "that the mule 'Giovanni' you are now riding was once ridden in this very same pass by Menotti Garibaldi, while your friend's mule had the honor of carrying our Queen Margherita on his back!" As, however, neither my friend nor myself seemed to have properly appreciated the "historic" glories associated with our saddles, the guide shook his head mournfully, pitying us, I suppose, from his heart for our patent ignorance and stupidity. If we were the lucky dogs he thought we should be under such circumstances we must have kept our luck to ourselves, for he couldn't see any signs of it on our countenances. Although the little road from St. Remy upward is somewhat rugged, the mules were experienced enough to pick their steps carefully and with much precision, and we soon arrived at the borders of a small lake, on the azure surface of which snow wreaths and blocks of ice were disporting themselves under the caresses of every passing zephyr. All around us were the Alpine peaks and their dark, mysterious caverns and myriad precipices, around which were clustered many a gigantic glacier hanging over ghastly gorges, fantastically-curved rocks, black as night and repulsive as the grimest of shadows, or arrayed in albs of peerless white and dazzling magnificence; wastes where verdure is quite unknown, and where the eye is relieved only by the glimpse of some solitary stunted cedar, its trunk embedded in a granite rift, and its palsied arms lifted up, as if in mournful appeal to the gray sky. Here and there too, like an oasis in the desert, are found the edelweiss, that valuable little Alpine flower, sole reminder of those "stars of earth" that we left far behind us in the world below! Around the banks of the lake reigned a very solemn silence. We heard no whizzing of eagles' wings, no cawing from the throat of the dismal rook. All was still and all was melancholy amid those heights and crevices where a bird is as much a curiosity as it would be in Kevins Lake at Glendalaugh, "whose gloomy shore skylark never warbled o'er."

Here one of my Italian friends, a good English scholar and an enthusiastic admirer of Longfellow, insisted on my declaiming "Excelsior" for his special benefit, as well as for that of the company. It was not without much difficulty that I [illegible] air is on the lungs in exercise. However, I had nothing to do but run the gauntlet with the keen biting atmosphere, and out rolled the stirring stanzas of the poem, filling the little amphitheater with the strangest of echoes. After this bit of voice-play we turned our gaze on the famous monastery, a large massive building with its few score windows and five stories, sitting at the foot of a snowy mount, the heights of which were lost in the clouds. As we were approaching the edifice we were met and heartily welcomed by three of the Augustinian priests clad in the sable garments of their order, whose cordiality toward us during our stay among them was only in keeping with that traditional hospitality for which Great St. Bernard has been particularly remarkable. A brief conversation with one of these monks was enough to confirm me in the idea that their martyrdom, so to speak, had by no means concluded with the railway tunneling of St. Gothard. Nearly all these devoted priests die young, despite the precautionary measures taken for relieving them as often as possible from duty, and allowing them to enjoy for several months every year the milder air of the valleys. Three or four of them remain at the monastery throughout each winter, and their posts are quite the reverse of being sinecures, especially in the very early spring, when the agricultural laborers, too poor to travel by rail, have to follow the beaten track of old, and are often lost in the snow, as thousands have been before them, when the steam engine was not even an undeveloped possibility. These unfortunates cross from one country into the other in search of employment, and are always well provided for by the priests of St. Bernard. None save the most robust of the monks are permitted to take up their quarters for any considerable time in the monastry, and even these, after a few years' hard work, interrupted though it is occasionally by much needed repose at Aosta and elsewhere, succumb to pulmonary affections brought on by the killing atmosphere of the mountains. We enter the monastry by one of the lateral doors and reach a large hall, escorted by the monks, who are always eager to supply any information of interest that may be required of them. Over the chief portal of this apartment we see a large marble slab bearing the following inscription: "Napoleoni Primo Francorum Imperatori semper Augusto," which, for the benefit of the classically unitiated, may be translated thuswise: "To Napoleon the First, the ever august Emperor of the French." One of the priests explained, in answer to a query of mine, that this slab was erected in 1804 as a token of the monks' gratitude to the "Little Corporal" for his kind and benevolent patronage of the monastry after the victory of San Marengo, The grand salon of St. Bernard resembles the salle a manger of a first-class hotel with its large bay windows and tesselated pavement; while its walls are adorned with magnificent cornices cut by Gerome and presented to the prior several years ago by Signor Augusto Cagliani of Milan. There are three principal flats in the monastry, each of which contains from sixteen to twenty rooms. Each flat is provided with a corridor of superior workmanship in iron, and each room is furnished with two beds, the linen of which is scrupulously white and the blankets very comfortable. The light that streams through the windows is, however, a dull glare, produced by the eternal boulders of snow that rise in ridges almost all around the edifice. After a walk around the monastry and a personal examination of one of the outhouses, where long ago the corpses of belated travelers used to be preserved for months from putrifying, thanks to the peculiar atmosphere of the locality, we adjourned to the dining-room, where two lay brothers waited on us, and we did justice to some exquisitely cooked venison, washed down with the fizzling red wine of Piedmont. At 9 o'clock P. M., the convent bell rang out solemnly through the solitude, and warned us to our respective cells where we enjoyed a good rest till 5 next morning, when the Angelus tintinnabulated from the belfry, and soon afterward we were assisting at the Prior's mass in the chapel of the monastry. After divine service we had mutton chops and fried eggs, a few bottles of Bordeaux and a jug of black coffee, after which we scaled the mountain overlooking St. Bernard, and enjoyed one of the most magnificent spectacles imaginable. Certainly, I admit, the view is less diversified than that from the heights of Righi, and more limited than the panorama seen from St. Gothard, but in glory and grandeur it outrivals both. Before us are the majestic circles of the Alps—so many rockbound, snow-clad chains extending beyond the distant horizon. Here is Mount Blanc, Byron's "Monarch of Mountains," raising its venerable white head over the pleasant fields on the bank of Lake Leman; there our fascinated gaze falls upon the Grivora and the Gran Paradiso with their gorgeous paraphernalia of sun-lit morning clouds, while below us stretched the picturesque Swiss Canton de la Vallee, alive with chalets and wild deer, and behind us lie the undulating vineyards and mulberry plantations of "la bella Italia." Standing as we were some 3,000 yards over the level of the sea, we could not feel but awe-stricken at the immensity of the tableau that nature presented to our gaze. We slowly descended the fissured rocks, and after having evidenced our gratitude to the good monks by the customary ad libitum contributions—on which, by the by, they have to depend entirely for their support—we had to hurry our way rapidly down the mountain to St. Remy, as a snowstorm was brewing in the heavens and woe betide us if we were caught in its meshes. Before concluding this paper, allow me to render the scantiest justice to the noble priests of St. Bernard, by the simple expression of my opinion that humanity has not only owed them in the past, but still owes them in the present, obligations which can never be repaid.

DREAMING.

I dreamed as I slept last night.
And because the wild wind blew;
And because the plash of the angry rain
Fell heavily on the window pane,
I heard in my dream the sob of the main
On the seaboard that I knew.

I dreamed as I slept last night.
And because the oaks outside
Swayed and groaned to the rushing blast,
I heard the crash of the stricken mast,
And the wailing shriek as the gale swept past,
And cordage and sail replied.

I dreamed as I slept last night.
And because my heart was there,
I saw where the stars shone large and bright
And the heather budded upon the height,
With the cross above it standing white;
My dream was very fair.

I dreamed as I slept last night.
And because of its charm for me,
The inland voices had power to tell
Of the sights and the sounds I love so well
And they wrapt my fancy in the spell,
Wove only by the sea.

EASTERN SITUATION

Explained by the Minister to Turkey.

AN INTERVIEW WITH S. S. COX.

The Diplomacy of Turkey Leaves Her in Possession of the Capital Point in the Oriental World.

In an interview recently the Hon. S. S. Cox, Minister Plenipotentiary to the Sublime Porte, talked freely of the stirring events that are now making history in the Orient. After reviewing the causes which led to the Eastern imbroglio, Mr. Cox referred to the recent significant election in Bulgaria thus:

"The Great Sobranje is a sort of organic convention or legislature. It had been summoned by the Provisional Government, which was installed when Prince Alexander left, to elect the successor to that Prince. You will observe that all the Government candidates have been successful. That means that the popular candidates, who sympathize with the Provincial Government of Bulgaria, and who are inimical to Russian aggression and rule, are prepared to eliminate Russian influence and repel Russian autocracy in Bulgaria. It is one of the most unmistakable elections in its result, for it indicates almost unanimity in the popular approval of institutions not dissimilar with our own.'

"What will Russia do in this event?"

"To me, looking at the matter from my standpoint at Bucharest, in Roumania, where I sojourned on my way home, and from knowledge of the imbroglio, gathered from a hundred sources at Constantinople, it looks as if Russia would make a rupture, and with force and arms control, since she has failed to control by the popular election. Perhaps she will claim that the elections are invalid. Perhaps she will rally all the Sclav element which remains faithful to her, or, it is said, grateful to Russia for rescuing Bulgaria from Turkey. But I do not see how Russia can make a unit in her favor of the Balkan provinces. The Turkish rule in Bulgaria has not been harsh, at least recently. I believe even in Macedonia, Epirus and Albania, where the Sclav and Greek element dominate, the population are more content and are better governed under the mild Turkish rule than if they were under an uncertain Government, like that of Greece, or a despotic force like that of Russia. Much of the old prejudice against the Turk has worn out. But it is very easy, if Russia desires it, to make

A PRETEXT FOR WAR.

The Spaniards have a proverb, "If you want to kill a dog, charge him with eating iron." So the Russians are provoking much hostility which they may be very anxious to avenge, and perhaps some turbulence in Bulgaria may afford them the pretext. The way matters stand, if an election were to take place and Prince Alexander would return and accept the election, he would no doubt be elected by the Great Sobranje. For although he made rather a lamentable show in undertaking to conciliate the Czar, and seemed to be pluckiest in leaving Bulgaria for the reason which he assigned, nevertheless he has a hold upon the hearts of the people, which has been more or less strengthened by his gallantry in the recent war with Servia.

"But Russia is massing troops upon the border. I saw Russian officers by the score at Bucharest, tramping around in their high-top boots and jingling spurs, as if anxious to cross the Danube and take charge of the Bulgarian people, among whom are now added to Roumelians. By a glance at the map it will be seen that there was an object in the great Powers leaving East Roumelia with the Turk and granting Bulgaria proper quasi self-government for the Balkan range of mountains, which are a strong defense and barrier, stand between a Russian advance and the cities of Turkey in Europe. If, therefore, Russia should attack Bulgaria, she would take it along with East Roumelia. That brings her over the border—over the Balkans. With her immense army always equipped and mobilized she could move down, where she was nine years ago, upon the shores of the Bosphorus or Marmora, and take Constantinople in the rear in disregard of all torpedoes and ironclads, and without any naval armament whatever."

"Is this a desirable result? And if the Turk should be ousted from the Bosphorus or Europe, what Power will be his successor?"

"The answer depends upon the attitude Austria, Germany and England may assume. England could do much with her navy, Austria more with her land forces. But Germany is the power that might, if she chose, determine the question. If there be a triple or 'holy alliance' between Austria, Germany and Russia, the matter is ended and the Turk 'must go.' But this same attitude has been held by Turkey for lo! these many years, if not centures. The skillful diplomacy of the Ottoman has played one power against the other. This policy leaves her in possession of the most conspicuous and capital point in the Oriental world.

"For many months, almost until recently, since September, 1885, Turkey has been standing with her hand upon her sword, with an army of 200,000 well equipped men, ready for any emergency. Her Sclavonic enemy, whether on the borders of Greece, in Macedonia, or on the frontiers of Persia or Russia in Asia, or upon the Balkan border, has lost no time in preparation by land and sea,

WHAT IT COSTS.

A poor country like Turkey to keep up such an army and navy, and at the same time to avail herself of every new invention connected with armaments and explosives upon water and upon land, it is hard to compute. But Turkey seems to have weathered her financial trouble. Her soldiers are scarcely ever paid, but they are true as ever to the Moslem faith. They stand steadfast by their amiable, benevolent, sympathetic and wise ruler.

"One of the late rumors is that an alliance between France, Russia and Turkep has been made, with a view to oust England out of Egypt, where she has no more right than Russia to Bulgaria. This is not unlikely; for the Russians, with whose Consul-General, M. Hitrooy, I traveled last February as far up the Nile as the Nubian boundary, were constantly courting Egyptian graces, and I have recently seen that the head of the Greek Orthodox Church of Russia has adopted the creed and people of the old Christian Coptic Church of Egypt. These are significant signs.

"England has not much trading or political interest in the Bulgarian question; but upon the contest depends here Asiatic prestige and sway of over two hundred million of people. I should not be surprised, therefore, if England would be compelled to take active steps, in cooperation with Turkey, against threat[illegible]

MONTE VISTA!

THE MOST ATTRACTIVE COLONY IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA!

BECAUSE IT HAS

A Perfect Climate! The Best of Soil! The Greatest Abundance and Purest of Water!

And the Most Delightful Situation of Any Tract of Land on the Coast!

Fogs do not smother;
Frosts do not blight;
Scale does not bother,
And the dollars are in sight,

—IN—

BEAUTIFUL, HEALTHY MONTE VISTA

MONTE VISTA

Is situated twenty miles by road a little west of north of Los Angeles City, between the Verdugo mountains and the main chain of the Sierra Madre, and embraces the entire valley between them. It is six miles east of San Fernando, and four miles west, on the western slope from Crescenta Cañada. The S. P. R. R. is four miles distant and a fine road has been constructed by the new Monte Vista Land and Water Company from the town to the station of Monte Vista, bringing Los Angeles within one hour's ride of this most delightful colony.

THE MONTE VISTA TRACT comprises an area of about 2300 acres of rich sandy loam soil. Of the entire acreage 1300 acres are first-class irrigable land, having a gentle slope to the south and west. About 500 acres are upon the hillsides and classed as non-irrigable land, although the soil is equally good and a very large percentage is capable of cultivation. The remainder is rough land, suitable only for forest trees. Nearly all the lower grade of the Monte Vista is on the north side of the Verdugo hills, which form the boundary of the tract. While the land is rolling it contains innumerable springs of pure water, which, with a little trouble, can be developed to such an extent that the owners are independent of the water supply of the colony. The division of the tract, aside from the town site, is chiefly in twenty-acre tracts, having a broad avenue on the four sides of each forty acres; less than twenty acres are sold to suit the means or desires of purchasers.

The town originally comprised forty acres, to which the new company have added additional forty acres, which are sold in building lots 50x150, and villa lots of one acre each. In the centre of the town plat and including about ten acres is the famous live-oak grove which for more than half a century has been known as TUJUNGA PARK. The company are now improving this, the finest of live oak parks in Southern California, and intend to make it one of the loveliest spots in the State. There is no day in the year and no time in the day when a delightfully cool breeze, gentle and refreshing, is not perceptible here. Fifteen to eighteen hundred feet above sea level and protected by the great mountain chain of the Sierra Madres on the north, walled on the south by the Verdugo Mountains, and on the east by the great divide connecting the two chains, FORTUNATE MONTE VISTA is free from blighting frosts, settling fogs, or the hot winds prevailing in many places in the country. All this means health, wealth and plenty.

MONTE VISTA FOR HEALTH.

If there is a cure for disease in pure, dry air, pure, clear, soft mountain water, warm, sunny days, cool, delightful nights, delightful surroundings, good accommodations, excellent care and attention, then Monte Vista should be the Sanitarium of the World.

PRACTICAL MONTE VISTA.

The soil of Monte Vista is a very rich sandy loam, and in places gravelly loam. It is deep and warm and retentive of moisture; so that, even if there was no water excepting the natural rainfall, it would be capable of growing every known fruit grown in California.

THE MAGNIFICENT WATER SUPPLY

Of Monte Vista is sufficient for ten times the irrigable land in the tract, and the probabilities are that one-twentieth of it will be sufficient for all purposes. WATER, SOIL, ELEVATION and CLIMATE for the Orange, Lemon and Lime. Every requisite that can be desired for perfect, large, clean and highly-flavored fruit. Soil and climate for the highest degree of development of the FIG, which is destined to be one of the most important of California's fruit products. RAISIN GRAPES have grown to absolute perfection, and there is every requisite of climate for their perfect curing without interference of fogs or rain. Climate and soil for the early and perfect maturing of the OLIVE, one of the most valuable products of the State. Forty acres in one tract now growing in Monte Vista will challenge the admiration of every one who understands the exacting conditions required by this fruit. Elevation and soil for the growth and maturing of APPLES and PEACHES, PRUNES and PLUMS, APRICOTS, NECTARINES, and the most difficult of all fruits, the ALMOND. Soil, elevation and climate for the absolutely perfect WINE GRAPE. No land which possesses all of the exacting conditions which are found in Monte Vista exists elsewhere in Southern California. One place lacks climate, another water, another genial situation and another all combined. While we have named the above special adaptations, we have reserved the most important to the last. For Monte Vista we claim that it will within seven years be shipping to the markets of San Francisco the

FINEST CHERRIES GROWN ON THE COAST.

We claim that it possesses every requisite of soil, climate and situation for the growth of the PERFECT CHERRY, which is worth per acre three times as much as the orange, five times as much as the grape, and ten times as much as the apple, while the cost of cultivation is less than either of the two former. In short, Monte Vista has every requirement for people of means who wish to make money by growing fruits, and in the near future the finest packed goods, canned and preserved goods of all kinds, will be grown and prepared in Monte Vista and be a source of health to those engaged in the business.

IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE.

The Monte Vista Land and Water Company, since they acquired the property in July last, have built three miles of road to the San Fernando valley, opened fourteen miles of street sixty feet wide, handsomely furnished the present hotel building, and now have fifty thousand feet of lumber on the ground for the erection of an elegant hotel, which will equal anything in the State in comfort for its guests, excellence of the table, etc. All the company's lands now cleared will be put under the highest state of cultivation possible. A two-thousand-dollar subscription for a church is well under way, half a dozen cottages are already engaged to be built during the winter, and many other improvements are under way.

MONTE VISTA THE ROMANTIC.

From the head of Summit avenue, looking westward, the entire tract of Monte Vista, including the beautiful Tujunga Park, is in full view; the Verdugo hills, the San Fernando mountains, the great wash of the Tujunga, San Fernando town and the eight by twenty miles of wheat fields of the San Fernando valley lie directly under the eye. From the Park and Hotel Monte Vista, looking northward, rise the giant bulwarks of the Sierra Madre, broken only by the great chasm of the Tujunga, which clefts in twain the pine-topped peaks which rise pile on pile through the range to the Mojave desert, some thirty five miles.

From Monte Vista a trail runs to the summit of the highest peak overlooking the valley, and from this point, 5000 feet above sea-level, is one of the grandest views imaginable. Northward the rocky and rugged peaks of the Sierras rise in confused masses and here and there their precipitous sides are covered with forests of sugar pine. In years gone by many of the gloomy cañons whose lines can be dimly traced by the shadows, have echoed to the picks of adventurous prospectors, some of whom left their homes a prey to the mountain lions and coyotes. To the south and west lie the valleys of San Fernando and Los Angeles, with all the magnificent line of plains to the coast. Upon a cloudless day the islands off Santa Barbara and southward to Catalina are in full view, and every vessel passing up or down is plainly visible. The shipping at San Pedro and the whole coast line for a hundred miles seem to lie at your feet. Eastward and southward the San Gabriel valley, Pasadena, Pomona valley, Riverside, and the mountains of Temescal, San Jacinto and San Diego, with their infinite variety of light and shadow, present a picture once seen never to be forgotten. Around

THE MAGNIFICENT TUJUNGA PARK,

Which lies in the center of the old town site, cluster many romantic events. There, forty years or more ago, the old Spanish Don overtook his beautiful daughter and her lover in their flight, and, despite her pleadings, put him to the sword. Vasquez and Murietta, the famous robbers, here had their rendezvous and here buried vast sums of money, which is believed to be here still. So famous is the grand old park as a HEALTH RESORT that it has for fifty years been visited by the Spaniards, who credit it with being the abode of the Lady of Mercy. Spanish maids weave fanciful fairy tales of it for their charges, old men recall it as the scene of many a merry-making, and the señoras laugh as they relate again their conquests beneath the old trees whose shadows yet greet the advent of tender spoons and give grateful rest to the tired invalid. Handsome fountains will soon add new charms, where beautiful flowers will brighten the sombre hues and gladden the eyes.

But Go to Monte Vista.

SEE MONTE VISTA BEFORE YOU BUY ANY PLACE ELSE!

You can get the best of land, with or without water, at lower prices than anywhere in the county, when the value is considered. IT IS A PLEASANT DRIVE of two and one-half to three hours from Los Angeles, and you will find excellent hotel accommodations—good, new beds, good table, etc. You will find sign-boards every mile to Monte Vista.

YOU CAN GO TO MONTE VISTA:

First—By stage from Los Angeles, which leaves Los Angeles on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, from the office of the Monte Vista Company. Returning, leaves Monte Vista on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Second—By private conveyance, following the county road northward along the S. P. R. R. to, first, Glendale, Verdugo cañon and the south line of Crescenta Cañada, to the Summit, and thence to Monte Vista; or, second, follow same route as above, except just before Glendale is reached keep to the left and follow the railroad and county road to the north line of the Providencia Rancho, then keep the right hand road to the Big Tujunga Wash, then turn to the right and follow the road east through the valley to Monte Vista. This is a delightful road for the greater part of the year; in summer it is somewhat sandy, but not more so than the Verdugo road.

RED MIKE'S REST.

A Story of Halloween in Ireland, by William Sharp.

One wild, blustering afternoon of the last day of October I made my way as best I could across a stretch of hilly moorland, vainly hoping that I might be able to meet with some one able to direct me to my destination. Looking round, I perceived a man waving his arm to me, and as I approached him I noticed that he was a piper—a fact of which he soon informed me himself, adding that he was on the way to Mr. Connolly's farm to provide the music for the dancing that was sure to follow the regular Halloween festivities. It was well he descried me on the moor, for if I had proceeded further in the direction I had been following I would have probably found myself floundering in the huge and treacherous bog called in the neighborhood Red Mike's Rest. On the way Larry O'Hara—for so I learned was the piper's name—gave me much curious information about the customs of Hallowmas Eve in that part of Ireland, and as his account of how the great bog from which I had narrowly escaped got its name is germane to my subject, I will give it here.

"Red Mike, your honor, was the only son of Widow O'Flaherty. He was a queer one from his birth, an' no wonder, for he first saw the light atween dusk an' dark o' a Hollowmas Eve. Hereabouts the people say that if a baby be born on this night, it rins a moighty good chance o' bein' possessed by some sprite or other; it may or may not be true, oi'm sure it's beyont the likes o' me to say whether such things are possible or not, but I will say that Mike O'Flaherty was different to other men from the first. He wor always up to some game, he wor, an' nivver for good—leastways I nevver heard o' anny good he iver did. He lied and broke his troth to man an' woman, an' got into bad odor with priest and magistrate, for nigh upon twelve years arter he came to manhood, until the judgment o' God came upen him. One Hallow Eve he was at the house o' the Flannigans, up by Glen Creachan. He was courtin' Mary Flannigan, though ivery one of us knew she didn't care two straws for Red Mike, but was all aglow wi' love for Larry O'Rourke, the Limmerick carrier. It's the custom in these parts for the childer to run into the cabbage yard afore the evenin' fun begins, an' to pick out a number o' cabbage stalks, an' name them arter any seven o' the folk they have anything to do with; then, having finished we' this choosin', they dance round the place. * * Flannigan's childer, havin' finished their song, ran into the house an' asked all the folk to come out an' see their sowls. Ould Flannigan pulled his cabbage stalk, an' Mrs. Flannigan hers, an' young Flannigan his, an' Mrs. Tim hers, an' purty Mary Flannigan hers, an' Larry G'Rourke his, until it came to Mike O'Flaherty's turn. The stalks of all the others had been quite clean an' white, but when Red Mike pulled up his, it was all black and foul wi' worms an' stugs, an' wi' a real bad smell abint it. Larry O'Rourke aughed, an' Mary Flannigan giggled, an' the others all looked moighty consarned. Mike glared about him for a moment, more like a mad bull or a haythin Turk nor a Christian. Then he up an' says: 'Ye may laugh, Larry O'Rourke, but ye'll no be laughin' long; ay, ye may snigger, Mary, but ye'll be cryin' for manny a day, whan yer lover's below the sod, as he will be before the year's out. As for you, ould Flannigan, you an' your son an' all that belong to ye will have cause to curse the day when ye moked Red Mike, as ye call me. Ye forget I was born on Hallow Eve! I've the gift o' the sight, I have, and on this day my curse can blast whatever I choose.' What more Red Mike would have said I don't know, but at that moment Father O'Connor came up to where all were stan'in'. 'Curses come home to roost,' says he to O'Flaherty, in a starn voice, 'an' its you that'll suffer, Mike O'Flaherty, an' no one here. Get ye gone at once, or I'll put the word on ye.' 'I'll go when I choose, Father O'Conuor,' says Red Mike, surlily. The next moment the priest drew a crucifix from his breast, saying to O'Flaherty that even if he wor in league wi' the devil he could not withstand tat. Mike gave a howl just like a wild baste, an' thin turned an' ran down the glen as fast as he could. Ould Thady King, the piper (now dead, God rest his sowl!), wor crossing this moor that night, an' who should he see but Red Mike, dancin' an' shoutin' like mad, an' screamin' in mortal fear. 'Mike! Mike!' ould Thady cried, but O'Flaherty paid no attention to him, but kept on screamin', an' sometimes shoutin' out, 'My time is up! my time is up!' Suddenly he bent forward an' ran like the wind, took one great leap, an' disappeared in the ground as if he had jumped into the sea. Nothin' more wor ever seen o' Red Mike, leastwise as a man. An' that's why the great bog yonder is called Red Mike's Rest."

Press Men and Politics.

It is a remarkable thing that while the Democrats always recognize the aid of the press, Republicans never do so. Stoneman gave a secretaryship to a newspaper man and Hearst entrusted his senatorial affairs to an old reporter, while the Republicans had no places for newspaper men. Flynn found a place in his office for an ex-city editor. Bartlett's chief clerk was an old Examiner man, and if Bartlett takes his seat one editor will go on the Harbor Commission, another on the Bank Commission and a third in some important place. Stoneman put a newspaper man in the Prison Commission, and the Democrats in this city nominated one reporter for the Senate and another for the Assembly, and elected them both by big majorities. The Democratic Pilot Commission has a reporter for Secretary, and so has the Democratic Forestry Commission. Pond will probably find a place or two for Democratic newspaper friends, and it is due to Buckley to say that, while newspaper men have been severe on him, he has always helped newspaper workers when they have aspired for places. Considering the amount of party work they do, newspaper men are modest about asking for party reward, the general opinion being that it hurts a writer professionally when he seeks a place, but they all stand in when one of them is after a place, and that may be the reason why in California the Democratic ticket always finds more journalistic supporters than the Republican.—Exchange.

What the Duke of Wellington Did.

The story is one which Sir Frances learned from his father, to whom Wellington told it himself in his own characteristic language, when the elder Doyle was dining at Apaley House:

"Afterthe battle of Talavera I wanted the Spanish force to make a movement, and called upon Cuesta to take the necessary steps, but he demurred. He said by way of answer, 'For the honor of the Spanish Crown I cannot attend to the directions of the British general, unless that British general go upon his knees and entreat me to follow his advice.' Now, I wanted the thing done, while as to going down upon my knees I did not care a twopenny dam, so down I plumped."

HALLOWEEN CUSTOMS.

A Literary Essay by William Sharp in Harper's Magazine.

Old superstitions die hard, and it will certainly be long before the festival of Halloween becomes as much a thing of the past has as practically become the Guy Fawkes celebration on the 5th of November. Long before the Christian faith made way among the untutored people's of ancient Britain, the Druids had performed special rites on what is now known as Hallowmas Eve; fires were lit deep in remote forests upon outlying spurs of hills, even upon the great plains that stretched between dense forests and partially cleared woodlands; mystic rites were performed, the help of the true God was implored, the machinations of evil powers were protested against. The earliest records bear witness to a universal belief that on this night the powers of darkness muster in great force, that all supernatural beings hold revel within the sphere of humanity, and that, therefore, it behooved all persons to be careful on this night of all nights, for any sin committed rendered the perpetrator liable to be brought under the influence of some evil spirit throughout a whole year thereafter. To this day, any child born in Scotland on the eve of the 31st of October is supposed to be in possession of certain mysterious faculties, to hold—if not consciously, at least unconsciously in the midnight hours when the senses are obscured by sleep—communion with the supernatural world, and to be at all times a person whose actions, however eccentric, must be regarded charitably. Those who have read Sir Walter Scott's "Monastery" will remember that he has made use of this circumstance. "She's as flytie as a Halloween wean" is a phrase that may even yet be occasionally heard north of the Tweed, and in most of the popular accounts of wizards and all uncanny folk the date of their births is generally set down as on the last day of October. When, later on, All-hallow Eve became a Christian observance, the old customs pertinent to its celebration, did not pass into disuse; on the contrary, they became more and more deeply established, every here and there accumulating some new superstition, or annexing some old belief that had long lingered without direct association with any special day, season, or locality. Bonfires are still lit on Hallowmas Eve, though perhaps only one or two here and there among the members of the innumerable village communities who thus celebrate the great event know that the practice is a remnant of paganism; indeed, it is surprising, in the use of this as of many other popular customs, to find how few know anything whatever of the significance of their celebrations. "We do as our fathers did before us," is sufficient to account for everything. In Protestant countries the vigil of All-souls is no longer a religious observance, or at any rate is not so in Scotland, England or Germany. It may be said that Halloween, as we understand it, is only celebrated by the Teutonic and Celtic races. With the Latins it is merely a religious vigil, round its observance clinging few, if any, of those wild legends or superstitions that are so plentiful in Scandinavia, Scotland and Ireland. The nearest approach to the Northern solemnity, and even weirdness, is the Venetian notte delle morti, or night of all the dead; but the religious ceremonies attendant thereon take place, not on the 31st of October, but on the eve of All-souls Day, that is, the day following. It is in Scotland and Ireland that Halloween is kept in its entirety; in the former, curiously enough, more in the East, mid-country and Dowlands than in the remoter Highland districts; in other words, more among the Scots proper than among the pure Celts. The best chronicle of Hallowmas Eve that exists is the well-known poem of Burns, containing, as it does, some record of the most generally practiced customs in connection with this really ancient vigil, but, considering the popularity of the subject, there is a wonderfully limited "Halloween" literature. The succeeding threefold chronicle may possibly, then, contain something novel as well as of interest to many readers. It may be that the time is not far distant when All-hallows Eve will lose its hold upon rural as completely as it has upon urban populations, when bonfires will be lit only by a few youngsters, when apples will cease to be ducked for, and when nuts will no longer be set ablaze amid the red-hot coals; but the writer, for one, believes that such a time is not yet at hand, and disbelieves that Halloween will disappear altogether as a festival.

It is not only that there would be a revolution in the child-world if such sacrilegious disuse were to become the fashion, but that there are too many older children interested in the famous eve to allow its celebration to drop altogether yet awhile. At sea, in Canada, the States, Australia, even in India, wherever a true Scottish or Irish family is located, there is sure to be at least one voice raised in favor of the genial old custom. Its superstitious observances must undoubtedly pass away—have, indeed, to a great extent already become obsolete—but the good-fellowship, the laughter, the nut-roasting, the apple-ducking, the candle-singeing, ought long to be specially associated with the 31st of October.

Mule of Texas.

After Byron.

Mule of Texas, ere we part,
Tell me why you will not start,
Or if really you must balk,
Pray excuse my wicked talk,
Hear my vow before I go;
I'll be even with you, though.

By thy long tail unconfined,
Wooed by every passing wind,
By those heels, so wondrous swift,
Which can men o'er tree-tops lift,
By those ears that droop so low,
I'll be even with you, though.

By those ribs I long to baste,
By the show of durn bad taste,
By thy melancholy bray,
That alarms folks miles away,
By thy stern resolve to whoa,
I'll be even with you, though.

Mule of Texas, I am gone,
Think of me, sweet, when alone,
For I fly to get a club,
Then your blamed old back I'll drub,
If I can not make thee go,
I'll be even with you, though.

A Queer Love Spell.

In search of knowledge
He went to kcowledge,
And there was so busy
He often grew dusy;
His time was spent wholly
On deep studies wolly;
He wouldn't touch liquor
And never would suiquor;
He did his own sewing
And wouldn't go rewing;
He spent little money
And never was foney;
His heart was like gneiss
Until one day a gmeiss,
Attractive and puisne,
Just made him go luisne;
His love was as great
As a bird's for its meat;
One morning he said,
"Sweet angel, let's waid."
And she told him, "Your
Lovesickness I'll cour;
Your heart musn't ache
Any more for my sache;
So, as you may guess,
My answer is 'Yess.'"

THE RIVER OF TIME.

Oh, a wonderful stream is the river of Time,
As it runs through the realms of tears,
With its faultless rythm and musical rhyme,
And a grander sweep and surge sublime,
As it blends with the ocean of years.

How the Winters are drifting like flakes of snow!
And the Summers, like birds, between;
And the years in its sheaf, so they come and they go
On the river's breast with its ebb and its flow,
As it glides in the shadow and sheen.

There's a beautiful isle in this river of Time,
Where the mildest of airs are playing,
With cloudless skies and a tropical clime,
And a song as sweet as a vesper's chime,
And the Junes with their roses are staying.

And the name of this Isle is the Long Ago,
And we bury our treasures there;
There are brows of beauty and bosoms of snow;
They are heaps of dust—but we love them so—
There are trinkets and tresses of hair.

There are fragments of songs that nobody sings,
And part of an infant's prayer;
There's a harp unswept and a lute without strings;
There are broken vows and pieces of rings,
And the garments she used to wear.

There are hands that are waved when that fairy shore
By the mirage is lifted in air;
And we sometimes hear through the turbulent roar,
Sweet voices we heard in the days gone before,
When the wind down the river is fair.

Oh! remember for aye be that blessed Isle,
All the day of our life till night!
When the evening comes, with its calm, bright smile,
And our eyelids are closing to slumber awhile,
May that Greenwood of soul be in sight.

CALIFORNIA RAISINS.

Dealers, Packers and Producers —The Pack This Year.

No industry in California has developed more healthfully, or become more permanently established, than the raisin industry. The experimental period in this branch of production, was passed some years ago, but it took a few years longer to demonstrate to the people east of the Rocky Mountains, that our claims in this direction were not over-stated. The wide distribution of California raisins last year, gave evidence of the possibilities of the State, in raisin production, and the favor with which they were received by consumers, has led to much more general demand the current year. While as yet no system has been adopted for keeping statistics of the annual crop, close approximation is possible. The crop in 1884 was the first that was large enough to demand systematic effort to find a market East, though comparatively small shipments had been made overland for some years. But the pack for 1884, aggregated about 350,000 boxes, which gave a surplus of something like 250,000 boxes more than could be consumed on this coast. A few wide-awake merchants saw the future importance of the raisin business here, and set to work to secure it. Last season (1885) the crop was estimated early in the packing season, at about 600,000 boxes, but this was greatly exaggerated. The pack of raisins (and in this we do not include dried grapes, which are branded raisins), proved to be a little less than 450,000 boxes, but this gave fully 350,000 boxes for shipment; a large increase over 1884. The quality was also much improved.

For the current year, estimates of the crop vary from 600,000 to 800,000 boxes. Conservative houses, engaged in handling raisins, seem inclined to think the minimum quantity mentioned is a full estimate, while sanguine producers, who generally (particularly on this coast), over-estimate, place the quantity at the maximum figure. All reports seem to agree that the crop will be under continued favorable conditions, be about one-third larger than last year. This is a very material and gratifying increase; a ratio of increase that, if continued, will soon give capacity for supplying the requirements of the United States. One reason for believing the pack will not reach more than 600,000 boxes, is that the season is thirty to forty days late, and cool nights retard the drying. The possibility of saving the late, or second crop grapes, is very remote, as the rainy season is now near at hand. Growth of this industry is exhibited by the following figures.

| | Boxes. |
|---|---|
| Production of raisins, 1884 | 350,000 |
| " 1885 | 450,000 |
| " 1886 (estimated) | 600,000 |

The raisin crop this year is superior in quality to that of any previous year; the advantage of experience in curing and packing is apparent. Then, too, there is considerable rivalry as to which packer shall merit the claim of putting up the finest goods. This applies not only to the matter of sorting and packing, but to papers, boxes and general appearance. As a whole, the raisins packed in this State this season are superior in style and quality to the average of Malaga fruit imported into this country during the last five years, and some special packs compare favorably with the very finest imported fruit under the Dehesa brand. The raisin crop is handled almost entirely by five firms in this city, viz: Wm. T. Coleman & Co., A. Lusk & Co., D. L. Beck & Sons, Geo. W. Meade & Co. and H. M. Newhall & Co. The brands and packs represented by these firms is as follows. The quantity set down to each packer is of course estimated, and we have in every instance taken the figures of the different houses for the packs they represent. Wm. T. Coleman & Co. represent the following:

| SOUTHERN DISTRICTS. | Boxes. | |
|---|---|---|
| Coleman's Flag brand, Fresno | 5,000 | |
| W. B. Forsythe, Fresno | 35,000 | |
| Miss Austin's " | 12,000 | |
| | | 52,000 |
| McPherson Bros., Orange | | 60,000 |
| Riverside Fruit Co., Riverside. | | 50,000 |
| NORTHERN DISTRICTS. | | |
| Jackson Bros | 10,000 | |
| Briggs Bros | 4,000 | |
| | | 14,000 |
| Sundry small packs throughout State (estimated) | | 34,000 |
| Total | | 210,000 |

The packers represented by this firm will put up no Dehesas, Imperial Cabinet, or bunch raisins this year. They believe that the standard of London layers and loose Muscatels can be raised by adhering to two brands only.

A. Lusk & Co., represent the following:

| SOUTHERN DISTRICTS. | | |
|---|---|---|
| E. H. Gould, Malaga | 5,000 | |
| T. C. White, Fresno | 4,000 | |
| W. H. Wells, " | 3,000 | |

| Total | | 104,000 |

D. L. Beck & Sons will handle:

| SOUTHERN DISTRICTS. | Boxes. | |
|---|---|---|
| F. R. Hall, Riverside | 50,000 | |
| Wm. Conlan, Fresno | 3,000 | |
| | | 53,000 |
| NORTHERN DISTRICTS. | | |
| Oakshade Fruit Co. Woodland | 5,000 | |
| R. B. Blower, " | 5,000 | |
| E. J. Clanton, " | 3,000 | |
| J. R. Woodbridge, Davisville | 1,500 | |
| S. R. Marden, " | 1,500 | |
| A. W. Thomas, Capay | 4,000 | |
| | | 20,000 |
| Sundry small lots | | 10,000 |
| Total | | 83,000 |

George W. Meade & Co., who handle raisins only under their own brand, packed at their establishment at Fresno, estimate their pack under the "Lion" brand, all description, as follows:

| SOUTHERN DISTRICTS. | |
|---|---|
| G. W. Mead & Co., "Lion" brand, Fresno | 75,000 |

H. M. Newhall & Co. have one of the large vineyards, viz:

| SOUTHERN DISTRICTS. | |
|---|---|
| A. B. Butler, Fresno | 40,000 |

This gives a total for the five firms mentioned of 512,500 boxes, according to their own estimates. The remainder of the crop will be handled by sundry smaller dealers, none of which make a special feature of the raisin business. In giving these approximate figures we are aware of the general tendency on the part of producers to over-estimate, but they serve to show what is expected from this industry this season. In the course of our inquiry we have had occasion to examine samples of several brands now on the market, which merit high commendation, viz: the Flag, Forsyth, Austin, Hall, White and Lion brands. These indicate the character of this season's fruit. Other samples are coming forward daily, which no doubt are equally worthy of mention. Taking quality, style of packing and general excellence, it is perhaps a surprise that higher prices do not rule. At no time this season have California raisins commanded the price which the New York quotations for Malaga raisins, to arrive, would seem to warrant, although on the present basis the business is a profitable one to producers. One feature of the California raisins is that they are put up actual net weight, both full and fractional boxes. The rivalry among producers, packers and dealers is a guarantee to buyers of honest goods, as the industry has now reached a point where all parties interested are endeavoring to establish a reputation for their product.—San Francisco Grocer and Country Merchant.

TEN CENTS A GLIMPSE.

Crowds Pay It to Look at Mr. Lincoln's Mine in Maplewood.

MALDEN, Sept. 26.—"What are all those people doing over there?"

"What people?"

"Why, those people crowding about that gateway, as if the promised land was within."

This is a paraphrase of a conversation that took place this afternoon in the Maplewood district. The speakers were standing in the middle of the road that runs past the home of T. Warren Lincoln. A plat of ground adjoining the house had been set off by an inclosure consisting of a board fence. Toward said board fence a number of men, women and children were hurrying after a fashion that suggested reminiscences of a circus in the truly rural country. These memories received new emphasis, when the writer, having approached the entrance, was informed that it took ten cents to gain admission to the exhibitin within. A silver dime was produced and paid to the smiling door-keeper.

"Now, what do I see for my ten cents?" was asked.

"Why, don't yer know? Hain't yer heard tell o' the gold mine?"

"I must confess I have not. Curiosity to know what had drawn the crowd hither induced me to give up my money."

"Well, sir, we have a genuine, bang-up gold mine. Piles o' the rock has been dug out and looked over by those that knew. It's sure to yield the owner thousands of dollars. Kind o' singular how he happened to get on to it. Ye see he had been to have a cellar dug, and one day, settin' by the place, he took up a little piece of rock and playfully threw it at some school children who were passing. It so happened that a gentleman who was going by at the same time took up a piece of the stone and at once concluded that there was gold in it. Now Mr. Lincoln won't take $20,000 for that little piece o' land. Why, only to-day several parties offered him $16,000 for the mine as it now stands, but he refused, and will for the present refuse all offers. He got so bothered with people coming here and asking him about the gold that he determined to put up a fence and charge admission. The money he gets in this way will help pay the workmen who are at work in the mine. He also sells a few specimens of the ore, and in this way also gets a little money. Hundreds, from all quarters, have been here to day. Mr. Lincoln has now duga distance of twenty feet and finds that the vein of ore still continues in richness. Ore worth $900 a ton is now obtained."

By this time the crowd had so increased that it was with difficulty that one could secure a firm foothold upon the embankment around the half-dug cellar which has now risen to the dignity of a gold mine. Mr. Lincoln, who was present, very courteously explained his prospects for securing the metal and the labors of his mineralogist. Although elated, it cannot be said that he is at all excited by his good fortune. Nor did he appear to lose patience on account of the frequent interrogations propounded to him.—[Cor. Boston Globe.

THE MASSAUGA SNAKE.

Why He Wore Cowhide Boots and Long Gloves.

Snake stories are always interesting, but the reality of a bout with a snake is far from interesting to the participant. The rattlesnake—and particularly the mountain rattler—figures oftenest in newspaper snake stories. I seldom see the massauga mentioned. Even the boche do not speak of it. And yet every pioneer farmer of certain parts of Michigan knows all about it and shudders as the name is mentioned. He does not fear the rattlesnake, for the latter gives warning of his presence, although I have often at first mistaken the signal of a rattler for the noise of a locust. He can even endure the sullen and deadly copperhead, But say, "Look out! There's a deadly massauga" to him, and he will jump even when standing in his own parlor.

A gentleman went from Cleveland many years ago into the then wilds of Southern Michigan. Seeing that he was not getting ahead in the world in the city he determined to buy a little farm All his possessions included a little family and a big axe, but he hewed a comfortable competence with it. He hadn't money enough to buy a team, and farming without a team is like writing without hands. One day a farmer of comparative wealth said to the ex-Clevelander: "I will sell you that yoke of stags if you will clear three acres of swamp for me with them." The stags were an ugly span of brutes that ran away on the slightest provocation. An honest yoke of oxen are as much superior to a wild and untamed zebra, but stags are better than no team at all. The farmer seemed surprised when his offer was accepted. The swamp was a dense growth of high bushes. The stags hitched to a clump of these bushes pulled them out by main strength, and usually celebrated the accomplishment of the pull by running away with the uprooted bushes.

"Better put on cowhide boots and long gloves," said the farmer, grimly, as the ex-Clevelander prepared to enter the swamp for the first day's work. The latter asked why he needed those belongings, but the farmer refused to answer him. He soon found out. The swamp was literally alive with snakes. There were all varieties, but the most numerous kind was a short, fat brown snake, saucy and spiteful. Whenever the ex-Clevelander moved about into the fastnesses of the swamp, he would feel something strike his boot legs and look down to behold one of those stubbed snakes darting at him. As he bent over to fasten the chain about a clump of bushes, one of those snakes would strike at his hands and arms protected by heavy gauntlet gloves. Returning home from his first day's work he found his boots and gloves scratched in scores of places by the fangs of those serpents.

"What are you doing?" asked a neighbor.

"I'm clearing up the Doty swamp," was the reply.

The neighbor threw up his hands in horror, and exclaimed: "I wouldn't walk into that swamp, let alone work in it, for a farm. It's full of snakes, mostly massaugas. Don't know what massaugas are? Well, if one bites you, you'll know. They are ten times worse than a rattler, and never give any warning before they strike."

A few days later I learned the horror with which the farmers regarded the reptile. They were at work in the barn. A little boy was playing just outside the large open doors of a barn where men were "cleaning up" wheat. An old lady who was visiting the family was famous for taking snuff from a large brown gutta-percha box, in the form of a coil. All at once the boy exclaimed: "There's Mrs. Smith's snuff box!" and stooped over to pick it up. A pioneer farmer seized the lad and hurled him twenty feet away, and then darted back himself and seized a club. The snuff box proved to be a big brown massauga, coiled up for a spring at the unsuspecting child. It darted toward the boy's rescuer and fought him desperately, but was finally killed. It was a peculiarity of those massaugas that they would turn up in the most unexpected localities.

At last the swamp was cleared. Talk about your brave knights that rode out armor plated to fight their enemies! The man who reclaimed that swamp was a greater hero than any of them. More than once a great blue racer—a species so cowardly at times and so brave on other occasions—coiled itself about his leg with a constriction so strong as to almost stop the circulation of blood, and darted its horrid but harmless head toward his face.

When the bushes had been pulled out and piled up and dried, the fun of burning them fell to me. It was terrible fun. The flames had begun to sweep over the piles of brushes when three great blue racers came gliding out toward me. I ran for dear life, and the snakes pursued me. They can distance the fleetest horse, and soon reached me. Then I turned about to give them battle, when the cowards glided away from me with a rush. The fire spread. More snakes darted out of the reach of the flames. I procured a club and mounted a large stump. For more than an hour I stood watching the horrible sight. The swamp was bounded on one side by a creek, on another by the highway, on another by a cultivated field, and on the side where I stood by woods and more swamp. The thick smoke and flames drove all the snakes in my direction.

Hundreds of massaugas darted past the stump. Great rattlers, too, were in the procession, and big black snakes, and any number of striped and milk snakes. As the hell of fire would suddenly lick up a brush heap, I could see two or three belated snakes spring up and then writhe in awful contortions in the fire. It was a scene of the inferno. Three acres of fire, three acres of writhing snakes! I shall never forget it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BOSTON DOG STORIES.

Showing the Intelligence of Really Cultured Animals.

There is a Newfoundland dog, Lion by name, who gives daily proof of his comprehension of what is said to him. A lady called on his mistress the other day. During her call Lion came in rather slyly, lay down on the parlor carpet and went to sleep. The conversation ran on, and the visitor said finally:

"What a handsome Newfoundland you have!"

Lion opened one eye.

"Yes," said his mistress, "he is a very good dog, and takes excellent care of the children."

Lion opened the other eye and waged his tail complacently to and fro along the carpet.

"When the baby goes out he always goes with her, and I feel perfectly sure then no harm can come to her," his mistress went on.

Lion's tail thumped up and down violently on the carpet.

"And he is so gentle to them all, and such a playmate and companion to them, that we would not take a thousand dollars for him."

Lion's tail now went up and down, to and fro, and round and round with great and undisguised glee.

"But," said his mistress, "Lion has one serious fault."

Total subsidence of Lion's tail, together with the appearance of an expression of great concern on his face.

"He will come in here with his dirty feet and lie down on the carpet, when I have told him time and time again that he mustn't do it."

Here Lion arose with an air of the utmost dejection and humiliation and slunk out of the room, with his lately exuberant tail totally crestfallen.

A dog went every day, with a dime given him by his master, to buy meat for dinner at a butcher's shop. The dog always presented his dime, which went into the till, and then his meat was given him and he trotted home with it. One day the butcher thought he would play a trick on his customer, just to see what he would do. So he put the dime in his drawer and went about other business. The dog waited patiently a long time to be waited on, showing some signs of impatience. The butcher made no sign of serving him. Finally the dog began to bark violently, walking meanwhile from the till to the chopping-block.

"What do you mean, you rascal?" shouted the butcher. "Get out of here; get out!" And he kicked the dog out of the shop.

The dog lingered an instant, and then trotted away in a determined manner down the street. In a few minutes he came back—with a policeman.—[Boston Record.

RUSTIC SUPERSTITION.

Men Who Have Faith in Alleged Signs and Wonders.

A phase of rustic humor which is destined year by year (and happily so) to shrink further and yet further into obscurity, is that belonging to rural superstitions. It has not disappeared yet. Far from it. Dwellers in remote country districts are aware how very frequently in the characters and modes of thought of their provincial-reared neighbors the ludicrous hovers on the borders of the sublime. A man or woman entitled on many grounds to a place in the roll of nature's nobility—bold, ingenuous, intelligent, stout of arm, and strong of will—is nevertheless over and over again proved the victim of some petty delusion, or craven, ignoble terror. There are working men in secluded hamlets who still cling to their ancestors' faith in astrology and in the "voices of the stars," as translated to mundane comprehension through the medium of the prophetic almanacs. And this not vaguely, tentatively; but with a robust credulity which can shape and govern their every-day actions, their buying and selling, their sowing and reaping, their contracts, whether social, commercial, or matrimonial. We quote a bona fide example.

A skilled country mechanic, a man of distinct pretensions to ability, lost his situation after fifteen years of approved service. He sought another, but at first unsuccessfully. Trade was depressed and the outlook somber. An opening offered in a somewhat novel quarter. The inquiry was made if he could commence work on the Monday succeeding his engagement. He hesitated and lugubriously demurred.

"I will come on the Tuesday without fail," he said.

"Why not on the previous day?" cautiously asked the employer.

"It's a bad one, sir."

"A bad one? How? I don't understand."

"By the almanac, sir. I wouldn't marry on that day if I were ever so deeply smitten by 'Cupid's arrow,' as they call it on the valentines, and if it were a choice between then and never; and I won't start at a new job on Monday next for any master in the country. Sorry to disoblige, sir."

Remonstrance and ridicule were alike vain. "No, no; I mayn't be able to explain it—there's a heap o' things in the world that we can't tell just the why and the wherefore of—but I've proved, and that's better than explaining it; in fact, there's a proof here in this little bit of business. My almanac told me I was to have changes this year. I looked all round, but couldn't so much as guess where they were to come from. But you see that after all the almanac was right; and I've noticed it lots of times."

This same artisan stood sponsor on another occasion for a statement so curious as to be worthy of reproducing as a specimen of the humor not simply of rural, but of technical superstition also. He was discanting on various occult influences of the heavenly bodies, a favorite topic with a congenial audience.

"The moon's power is very remarkable," he said; "as is well known and admitted, it rules the tides. And it likewise makes a wonderful difference to timber. You may hardly credit this, but its a matter of experience again. Timber felled when the moon is waning planes and cuts up nigh as easy again as the very same sort, and age, and growth of timber felled when the moon is not on the wane. It's queer, but true."—[Cassell's Magazine for October.

THIS PAPER is kept on file at N. C. DAKE'S Advertising Agency, 64 and 65 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, Cal., where contract for advertising can be made for it.

Herald Steam Printing House.

The HERALD Steam Printing House is not surpassed by any job printing office on the Pacific Coast, outside of San Francisco, in facilities for doing job work. Low prices, good work and execution may be relied upon at this office.

Special Notice.

Hereafter notices of companies, societies, churches, etc., will only be inserted in the HERALD as paid advertisements. We reserve for places of worship a gratuitous directory which will appear every Sunday morning.

The HERALD office is connected with the telephone system of Los Angeles city and county. Orders for advertisements or job work may be sent through this medium to number 156.

The HERALD is the official paper of the city of Los Angeles. The city delinquent tax lists and all other municipal notices appear only in its columns.

Dr. B. N. Rowe is the Santa Ana agent of the HERALD.

Temporary Retirement.

During the current canvass Mr Joseph D. Lynch, the Democratic nominee for Congress, in the Sixth District, will surrender the editorial supervision of the HERALD.

The Italy of America.

Yesterday afternoon a train of eight superb Pullman palace cars rolled up by the depot in this town, loaded to the last seat with a great Eastern excursion. They were the first Raymond party of the season, and came to participate in the festivities at the opening of the magnificent hotel at Pasadena. To-day an Ennis excursion from St. Louis will arrive by the Sunset route, and will add, certain more hundreds to the population of this city and of its suburbs.

Telegraphic dispatches in the HERALD this morning, contrasted with the bright sunshine, genial air and blue skies over our heads, explain why these large parties arrive here so frequently. It is not yet quite mid-November, yet all over New York there has fallen a very heavy snowstorm. The last soft tints of the far-famed Indian summer of our old homes have faded into the pale, leaden-gray of a big snowstorm. The white mantel of a dead winter enfolds the world thereabouts. The murmur of every rill will soon be hushed, strangled by icy fingers. "The melancholy days" of Bryant's poem are wide over all the land. Bare trees that shiver in the blast, nipping airs that make the blood run cold, a wild, wide waste of frigid death are the circumstances that enwrap life in that region. For six months there will be little comfort in life. Until April there will be a long, bitter fight for life to all denizens of that ice-bound portion of the country. Those who are still below the meredian of life, and who are endowed with exceptional health and strength, may find some hardly snatched pleasure in snowball fights, skating or sleighing. But to all not so gifted by nature with very robust constitutions, to the aged and to the invalid, there stretches out a long and weary time in which they may look to be shut up within doors, away from the freshness of the open air, deprived of the beauty of the sky and of the invigorating influence of outdoor life.

Contrast with this the cloudless sky, the warm sunshine, the clear, pure air, that blessed the denizens of Southern California yesterday. Ladies walked the street, careless of even the lightest wrap. Men worked at their occupations as if it were midsummer, coatless and yet with the dew of honest labor on their brow. Children rolled upon grass plats before the doors of their homes, in bare heads and arms, yet thoughtless that there was such a thing as weather to trouble people. The gardens are abloom with roses, heliotrope and other flowers. The mountains are wrapped in a delicate blue haze, and every sight and sound invite to the full enjoyment of perfect outdoor life. There is a year's vitality in a drive over the country. There is all but immortality in dwelling in such a perfect clime. So genial is the weather that life under such circumstances is as near unalloyed pleasure as can be found on earth.

The two pictures fully account for the great influx of visitors to this region of perpetual sunshine, and of healthful atmosphere. Little by little the existence of this eclectic spot has been impressed on the minds of the people. They are at last beginning to realize the fact that such a place as Southern California is within their reach. With each passing year they come in ever increasing numbers to pass the winter here. Each one who goes back becomes a commissioned herald to proclaim the beauties and comforts of Los Angeles winters. His story reaches a thousand ears, and all who hear become possessed of the desire to come and partake of these good things of life themselves.

A glance of the mind at the present condition, and at the past history of Italy, will give an inkling of what Southern California is to be. In the HERALD to-day is a letter to an Eastern journal from Northern Italy, about Lake Como, and her lovely sister waters. What has been done there is being done here, and it will all be done on a much more magnificent scale than it has ever been done there. There are more attractive elements here than there. To all visitors going into Italy, the land of their sojourning is a veritable strange land. These tourists are going into a foreign country. They are going among a people who speak an unknown tongue, they go to conform to strange customs, to be governed by unknown laws, administered by aliens. There is a different school system, altars at which most of the visitors cannot worship, conditions of life which are all new, strange, uncomfortable to them. There must be a conversion of the mind to reconcile the newcomer to the ways of life he has to confront.

Here our tourists find their mother tongue, the same school system left last week in Massachusetts, New York, Missouri or Illinois. The stranger finds himself met at the gates of our city, or in the passes at which he enters our valley, by friends from his own Eastern home. The only tokens the newcomer finds to remind him that he is at all away from home, is the blue, sunny skies, that bend over the beautiful country he has just arrived in. The protecting Ægis of the laws of his own land is still between him and all harm. There is no element of life, excepting the climate, differing at all from those he has left behind him.

To this eclectic and charming corner of America, Americans will flock in untold numbers, to spend their winters, and many of them to spend their lives. The lovely homes that lie around lake Como and Lake Maggiore will be duplicated in all parts of Southern California. On the spurs of our mountains, along the line of the foothills, wide over our fertile plains, along the fructifying streams, will cluster and nestle such homes as the world has never seen. Of old, the cry of hearts sore with the frosts of Arctic winters was: "Beyond the Alps lies Italy." The cry of the New World in its ice-bound regions now is: "By the broad, blue, sunny Pacific lies California." The very brightest spot is Los Angeles, and hither will they flock, and here pitch their tents in hundreds and in hundreds of thousands.

THE HERALD to-day, in a superb 12-page edition, filled with a well-selected pot pourri of miscellaneous reading matter, replete with telegraphic news from all parts of the world, up in all departments of local news, and carefully edited, is a thoroughly metropolitan journal. With really an overburdened advertising patronage and a rapidly increasing subscription list, we are impressed with a sense of the kindness of our friends, and realize that Los Angeles is a city in all essentials, and ready to recognize and support the enterprise and merit of such a journal as the HERALD.

FULL and accurate statistics of the raisin crop of California will be found in another page of the HERALD today. The exhibit is a most interesting one, showing that the total pack is a round half million boxes. This crop will net the State about $1,000,000. Advices from the East indicate that there is a market for double the present product, but profit depends on the way in which the fruit is handled. Good prices will be paid for really good goods, well cured, neatly packed and handsomely papered.

Lots Without Houses.

Nearly joining the South Side Tract of the Electric Railway, are now held at $100, and for a few days more you can get South Side lots for $550, and we give a fine house free with every seven; 86 lots, 12 houses.

Luck in Leisure.

Francisco & Casterline, at 114 West First street, Nadeau Block, are in the field with some choice bargains in real estate. They are sole agents for two of the finest tracts near the center of the city, which will be placed upon the market in a few days. Both tracts are on street-car lines, will have graded streets, and be supplied with city water. Parties seeking homes or desirable investments can call and see plats. Sales will not commence until the contracts for grading streets and laying water pipe are all made. Will make special rates with agents who desire to sell "gilt-edge" property.

$425.00.

This price shows the "Waverly" is for speculators, for all land near it is well known to be higher and fast rising in price.

Electric Railway Homestead Association.

"South Side" lots will advance sure. $550 now, very soon $800. Have now a fine house with every seven lots.

FIVE CENTS PER LINE.

NOB HILL TRACT.

TO THE HILLS FOR HEALTH

Large Lots, Low Prices and Easy Terms.

The Nob Hill Tract

Of Seventy Acres has been subdivided and is now ready for lucky buyers, and the early fortunate ones can select the best lots.

The Nob Hill Tract

Is located nearly midway between the Ellis Villa College, which adjoins the magnificent Belmont Hotel, and the splendid new Baptist College, now in course of construction.

The Nob Hill Tract

Adjoins the Lake Park of 35 acres, soon to be handsomely improved by the city of Los Angeles, and all the lots will share in the increase of values when the contemplated public improvements begin.

The Nob Hill Tract

Can be reached from the corner of Spring and Second streets (City Hall) in less than twenty minutes, being nearer the Court House than the Washington Gardens, and only six minutes from the end of the Second-street cable line.

The Nob Hill Tract

Lies on a commanding elevation, free from fogs and malaria; has pure water piped on the grounds; a charming OCEAN VIEW; PERFECT DRAINAGE, and has every advantage which contiguity to the center of the city gives.

The Nob Hill Tract

Is within the limits of the city of Los Angeles, only 1½ miles from the City Hall, and affords the best opportunity existing in the city to-day for a rapid advance in values.

The Nob Hill Tract

Will increase in value just as rapidly as did the lots in the Bonnie Brae Tract, the Arlington Tract, on Angeleño Heights, or in the Ellis Villa lots, where values have more than doubled in less than six months.

The Nob Hill Tract

Is offered for sale in large villa lots, at acre prices, ON EASY TERMS, for a short time only. The prices will be advanced rapidly by the owners as the sale progresses, and buyers must be prompt, or this golden opportunity will be gone.

The Nob Hill Tract

Already has better transit facilities than any new tract ever placed on the market in Los Angeles and the contemplated extension of the Second-street cable line out Diamond street and of the Ninth-street car line to the Baptist College, and the speedy construction of the Seventh-street motor road, will surround it with a net-work of railroads.

The Nob Hill Tract

Is surrounded by costly improvements as the most magnificent private residences in the city are now being constructed in its immediate vicinity. No part of the city has made such a MAGIC GROWTH as the section in which this tract is located, and it is pre-eminently the place for homes.

The Nob Hill Tract

Owners have generously donated an entire block of valuable lots to Kirkwood Seminary, and this new institution of learning will soon be erected and opened to the public. The adjacent Lake Park, the splendid ocean and mountain view, the beautiful homes already built and the many costly public and private improvements contemplated in the immediate vicinity, all combine to make

The Nob Hill Tract

The most desirable investment now on the market. Being in the direct line of the city's grand march to the west, it is certain to advance in value very rapidly.

Maps and price lists are ready for the public and can be obtained from owners,

BARGAINS IN REAL ESTATE.

$12,500—Home of 10 acres on Adams St., just outside of city limits; fine house and out buildings, beautiful yard and grounds; orange, apple, pear, peach and cherry trees in full bearing cover the place. This will make a splendid home or will subdivide to advantage. See this at once, as it will not be offered at this price long.

$7500—Improved place of five acres, adjoining the above. Good house, barn, windmill, etc. Every inch of this place is covered with the choicest varieties of fruit trees and vines. The yard is one of the handsomest in the city. We take pleasure in showing this property.

$18,000—9 acres on Main street, covered with orange trees in full bearing. This is the cheapest property for subdivision offered in this city.

$18,000—9 acres on Adams street, inside city limits. Fine buildings an orange orchard. Adjoins the Ellis Tract, more than half of which has been sold since July. This should be investigated at once.

$7000—4 acres on Main street, inside city. Buildings complete. Deciduous trees of every variety in full bearing. A splendid home and a bargain.

$6000—6 acres on Washington street, for subdivision.

$7000—1 acre, with elegant cottage and beautiful grounds, on Washington street. More land will be sold with this if desired.

$2500—Building lot on corner adjoining above 80x260 feet; simply perfect.

$1800—102 feet on Eleventh street, west of Pearl.

$550 each, six large lots, 50x209, on Tober man street.

$650 Each—Fine lots on Union avenue and Beacon street, between Eighth and Ninth streets. These lots are cheaper than any adjoining lots in the vicinity, and are only offered for a few days at this price.

$1100—Fine large lot on Montgomery St., 105x175; clean side of the street.

$1600—Corner lot on
